THAW DEFENCE HINTS AT SINISTER MOTIVE IN FIGHT FOR FUGITIVE

We have heard a great deal about vindicating the law—against the lavish use of the Thaw millions. We unhesitatingly say that if Thaw had been an ordinary laborer without a dollar and had been committed to Matteawan because found not guilty of homicide by reason of insanity, he would long since ceased to have become a charge on the State of New York. He would have been deported to his home State long ago.—From the Thaw plea presented to Judge Aldrich when the Matteawan fugitive began his final battle for life today.

JEROME IN THAW COURT CLASH

Says Girl Wanted to Pose Nude

REJECTED HUSBAND AT HOTEL

Thomas Hunt, lawyer for Edward J. Rantoul, pounced upon Mrs. Lois Burnett Rantoul's confessed love for "Chippie" Rumrill as soon as he had his notable plaintiff for divorce, granddaughter of the poet Lowell, upon the witness stand in further cross-examination today at East Cambridge.

Soon Mr. Hunt hurled this question at Mrs. Rantoul:

"How far did you go with your love?"

"That," replied Lois Burnett Rantoul, "is a difficult question to answer."

"Any familiarities?" demanded Mr. Hunt.

"I let him kiss me," admitted Lowell's granddaughter, while smart and cultured society friends of herself and her husband—also of Rumrill—hung on her words.

Mrs. Rantoul did not "recall" how many times. Pressed for details she allowed that Rumrill didn't kiss her "more than three or four times."

Mr. Rumrill—who in Chater C. Rumrill, Harvard graduate, clubman, yachtsman, Boston & Albany director, with all the riches that these qualifications imply—did not give his classmate's wife all those kisses at once.

"When were the other times, then?" queried Mr. Hunt. Mrs. Rantoul didn't remember.

Then Mr. Hunt asked flatly: "Did you kiss him?"

"I suppose I did," was Mrs. Ran-

LOUISE HARRINGTON, in one of her poses for Artist Rider, who may be called as a witnesses in the nude picture case.

Stanford, Bangor Winner.

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 20.—Charles D. Stanford was nominated for mayor at a Republican caucus.

'ART' WORK DESCRIBED BY RIDER

Henry Orne Rider of No. 26 Ilsington road, Auburndale, the artist accused of having and distributing obscene pictures, took the witness stand today in his own defence.

He admitted having several nude pictures and photographing subjects in the nude, but explained that these photographs were used for study and were tools of his trade as an artist.

Before Mr. Rider took the stand, eight witnesses testified to his good character. This was expected to be the last day of the trial. Miss Ethel MacDonald, who was a witness, was in court, as was Miss Louise Harrington, who was expected to be called as a government witness. But Joseph W. Wright, Mr. Rider's attorney, was not sure whether he would call upon them to testify for Mr. Rider.

RIDER ON STAND.

When Rider took the stand he said he had lived in Auburndale since 1869, except for a short interval. He was questioned thus:

Q.—What is your profession? A.—I am an artist.

Q.—Are you also a photographer? A.—I sometimes make photographs, either for customers, or for use in my work as an artist.

Q.—Do you do work in oil? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you paint landscapes? A.—Yes.

Q.—What training have you had? A.—In Boston and in Paris schools.

Q.—Have you had pictures exhibited? A.—Yes, in galleries in Boston, New York and Brooklyn.

Q.—How much painting do you do? A.—I have done five during the past year.

He was shown the eighteen pictures which form the basis of the charge of having obscene pictures in his possession.

HAD THEM FOR 16 YEARS.

Q.—When did you get those pictures? A.—Ten of them I have had since 1898.

Q.—What do you do with them? A.—I use them for study.

Q.—How? A.—I consider them tools of my trade.

Q.—Did you take or print any of these ten? A.—No.

Q.—Who did? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Who is the subject? A.—I don't know. A professional model.

He was shown prints taken from plates which the police may have seized in his possession.

Q.—Have you seen these before? A.—Not till I saw them here.

Q.—Have you seen the negatives? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you make prints from them? A.—No.

Q.—When were they taken? A.—In 1905. I took them as part of a design, but as I never completed that, I never made prints of the negatives.

The "character witnesses" who testified to Rider's good reputation were Charles A. Brown, Mrs. Hattie Howard, Winthrop Chandler, Miss Kathleen Barry, Mrs. Nora Fitzgibbon, Rev. Horace Dutton, Mrs. Alice Barrett and Mrs. Dorothy Grace Doucette.

Mr. Rider was shown a blue print of a nude girl.

Still Another Snow Storm on Way Here

Another storm, accompanied by snow, is sweeping along the coast from Cape Hatteras to Boston. High northeast winds are expected to hurry the gale along by this evening. Storm warnings were nailed to the mast at the Weather Bureau at 9 o'clock today. The Weather Man has decided there is no use in ever taking them down again. This particular storm is expected to clear late Saturday with mother cold snap.

Bread Throwers of Harvard Reproved

The first cabaret show at the Harvard Memorial dining room has ended in a breezy row. The Glee Club sang song after song, and finished with "Fair Harvard"—at which the loyal Harvard men rose, but many graduates of other colleges—students in the post graduate courses, kept their seats, and the true and loyal sons of Harvard proceeded to pelt these sitting men with doughballs, biscuits, cold potatoes and other debris. The Harvard Crimson reproves the bread throwers in an editorial today.

Sentence Waits Till He Shovels Snow

Michael J. Brennan, an Elevated motorman, living at No. 17 Beacon street, Somerville, was summoned into court on Thursday, for not shovelling the snow off the sidewalk in front of his house. He did not respond to the summons. So today before he could get off to work the police patrol backed up at his home and he rode to court. Special Justice Farrell found him guilty and held the case over while he shovels the snow.

Feared Wife Would Beat Him; Ran Away

James J. Duffy of South Boston told Judge Fallon in the South Boston Court today that he ran away to join the navy because he feared his wife would beat him. Duffy was arrested on a warrant charging him with non-support of his wife and six minor children. He was given a six-months' sentence and appealed.

Deny Stealing of British Paintings

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Officials of the British Museum said today that no pictures were missing from that institution. This announcement was made in reply to inquiries as to the authenticity of the report from Paris that canvases of great value had been stolen from the museum by a band of international art thieves.

Pittsfield, N. H., Fire Causes $35,000 Loss

PITTSFIELD, N. H., Feb. 20.—Four wooden buildings in the centre of the town were destroyed by fire early today, causing a loss of $35,000. The buildings were the Grand Army Hall Building, a dwelling owned by W. J. Brooks, the pee shop of Frank Ryan and the W. J. Brooks Block.

In Charlestown court today Dorothy Winters, aged twenty-two, was sentenced to Sherborn prison for an indeterminate term. Her mouth-old baby was ordered to the care of the State Board of Charity.

'LOCKS UP GIRLS FOR BAD DRESS'

Stories of almost unbelievable immorality involving the young were told today by citizens of East Boston who appeared today before a legislative committee at the State House to advocate a uniform Curfew law to prevent all children under sixteen years of age in the State from appearing on the streets between the hours of 9 p. m. and 4 a. m.

Representative John J. Murphy of East Boston advocated a change in the bill providing that boys under fourteen and girls under sixteen years of age should be prohibited from the public streets at night. He explained that his reason for specifying a difference in the ages of the sexes was because of the immodest dresses of young girls, which by their suggestiveness laid them open to insult from men.

The chairman of the committee, Senator Bagley, declared that all such girls as wore suggestive clothing should be "locked up anyway, regardless of their ages."

ADVOCATED AGE OF 14.

Philip Davis, of the Civic Betterment House, Salem street, advocated that the age be fourteen for both sexes and that the law be suspended during the heated term in Summer for the good of the public health.

"A curfew law will work some good, but the parents should be the lawful custodians of their children," he said.

Senator Bagley of East Boston described the sentiment in favor of the bill among his constituents. "Nobody knows, who does not live in East Boston, what we have suffered from this evil. A city ordinance is not sufficient for this purpose. We need a State law," said Mr. Bagley.

Judge Brown of the East Boston Municipal Court thought sixteen the proper age for the proposed law.

"I can produce twenty-three cases of young girls who have been ruined for life by human vampires," declared the judge. "A curfew law would do much to prevent this deplorable state of affairs." Judge Brown voiced the indignation of offended parents.

GOOD EFFECT OF CURFEW.

Rev. Charles J. Jones, pastor of the East Boston Methodist Church, told of the good effects of the curfew law in the State of Ohio. He also said that conditions among the young in East Boston were worse than any he had ever seen.

Harry J. Kyle, the father of ten children, pleaded earnestly for the passage of the curfew law, and said that it would do a world of good in helping parents to control their children's whereabouts after dark.

E. H. Burnstead, of the Massachusetts Civic Alliance, favored the bill, and said that his organization had passed a motion commending the bill.

8 Chicago Children Injured by a Bomb

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Eight children were slightly hurt and a score of families were thrown from their beds early today by the explosion of a bomb in the doorway of a three-story building on Taylor street.

GIRLS WHO SKI MUST NOW DON TROUSERS IF THEY'D BE UP-TO-DATE

Miss Polly Stevens, who has set the fashion of wearing trousers for skiing up in Quebec and declares it is the only safe and sensible attire for a girl to wear when indulging in such strenuous sport.

Quebec has seen the birth of a new Winter fashion that is making its way downward in the northern New England resorts. It is—Trousers for Skiing.

Strangely enough, the new style was inaugurated by a Brooklyn girl —Miss Polly Stevens. According to vie with the officers of the Quebec Citadel in this queer of Winter sports, Miss Stevens donned ordinary man's knickerbockers and a pair of polished skis—and went out on the hills.

The fashion at first shocked, then charmed. And in Quebec some of the girls are thinking of following her example. It is now the established thing that if one would ski, one don's trousers—and that's all there is about it.

JUDGE ALDRICH HEARS PLEA

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 20.—Harry K. Thaw, through his attorneys, today began his final battle for freedom. He appealed to Judge Edgar Aldrich to issue a permanent writ freeing him from danger of extradition to New York and Matteawan.

Former Governor William A. Stone of Pennsylvania is Thaw's chief counsel, and he bore the brunt of the clash with William Travers Jerome before Judge Aldrich today. The hearing opened at 11 o'clock, and Mr. Stone began at once to argue on the writ filed by the Thaw attorneys demanding Thaw's release.

Mr. Stone, following the briefs filed in the case, charged that Thaw was "railroaded into Matteawan." He said if Thaw was sane he had a right to escape, and if he was insane he could not be guilty of conspiracy. He continued: "If the court has a doubt of Thaw's sanity, and if it has any hearing a trial by some appropriate method should be had."

He charged that Jerome is trying to "get possession of Thaw to lock him up in a madhouse," and that by doing so, he is "making a football of the constitution and the perversion of justice." And he declared that the New York indictment on which extradition is now sought is "cumbersome, inflated and made up of high sounding words which, when analyzed are nothing but words."

FIGHT EXTRADITION.

Judge Aldrich arrived in Concord last night, and Jerome got there early today. The Thaw attorneys held a final council of war late yesterday. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw arrived to witness this crucial fight, and she, her son and the latter's custodian, Sheriff Drew, last night attended the musical festival of the Concord Oratorio Society in Phenix Hall.

Thaw's attorneys concentrated their first fight today on the question of extradition. It was not expected they would press the plea that Thaw be released on bail, until the other proceedings were concluded. Thaw has an account at the Mechanics National Bank here, and on the supposition that bail if granted will probably be about $25,000, is prepared to furnish the cash at short notice. Then he would be free to go where he pleased.

JEROME BITTER.

When the bail fight does come, there is expected to be a sharp clash between Jerome and Mr. Stone. Judge Aldrich, when Thaw first asked for bail, appointed a commission to determine whether his release would be dangerous to the public safety. This commission after a careful examination of Thaw, went beyond its instructions so far as to say pointblank that the prisoner is sane.

Jerome has bitterly criticised this decision, and has charged that it was made on inconclusive evidence and after the shortest study, in spite of the fact that eminent alienists at the time of Thaw's trial for murder declared him an incurable paranoiac.

The Thaw attorneys, on the other

CANAL OPEN TO SHIPS JULY 1, SAYS GOETHALS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—"Barring unforeseen accidents, the Panama Canal will be opened for passage of commercial vessels on July 1," said Colonel George W. Goethals, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, today. He has come to Washington to confer with President Wilson and Secretary of War Garrison.

Colonel Goethals denied a report that he intends to run for Governor of New York, stating that he is not in politics. He would not discuss the New York police commissionership.

"Of course the actual date of the opening of the canal depends upon such a number of details that it is impossible to predict the exact hour," Colonel Goethals said, "but it is my expectation that the first commercial ship will pass through not later than July 1. We do not anticipate any further slides, although these may occur at any time.

GREATEST DANGER OVER.

"However, we have provided against them mistakes as far as possible. Our expert geologists tell us as no slides of importance occured when the water was turned into the canal, so the greatest danger is passed.

"The fortifications of the canal are practically completed. The engineering work in connection with the protection of the Atlantic end of the canal has been finished entirely, and that on the Pacific side is almost completed. The army engineers have built such powerful fortifications that it practically will be impossible for any foreign force to get within striking distance of the canal once the big guns are in position. The opening of the canal will be practically simultaneously with the completion of the fortifications, and there is no longer that the United States will lose the result of her hard labor and great expense."

In speaking of canal tolls and whether United States coastwise ships should be exempt from the payment of such tolls, Colonel Goethals said:

OPPOSES TOLLS EXEMPTION.

"I have always been opposed to the exemption of American ships from tolls. I know nothing of the legal side of the matter, because I am not a lawyer, but I don't believe in exempting any vessels from payment of tolls, because this would decrease the revenues of the canal. I am in favor of any movement which will increase these revenues as much as possible. Furthermore it must be remembered that the exemption of American ships from the payment of tolls would not mean any saving to the producer, the shippers or the consumer. It only would mean increased profits for the shipping companies."

DERRY GUILTY AS ACCESSORY IN ARSON CASE

J. Fred Derry, one of the most prominent business and church men in Danvers, was found guilty of having been an accessory before the fact to arson, in connection with the burning of his box factory on November 22, 1911, by a sealed verdict returned before Judge Keating in the Essex Superior Court at Salem today.

Derry was indicted for arson in one count and as an accessory in the second count. The jury received the case at 10 a. m. yesterday and did not reach agreement until midnight last night. Derry is exonerated from the direct arson charge of setting the fire, but held guilty of being an accessory in planning it.

The insurance was $15,000, and sixty-four sprinkler heads were found plugged. Derry, his wife and family heard the verdict with him today. The case has been in two weeks and was one of the most important trials of this kind ever held in Essex County.

26 Firemen Injured in New York Blaze

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Twenty-six Bremen were injured today while fighting a blaze in the manufacturing building at No. 209-211 Sullivan street when they were struck by a terrific back draught. All the windows in the fourth and fifth floors were blown out.

Seven Men Killed in an Explosion

SALTCOATS, Scotland, Feb. 20.—Seven men were blown to pieces and more than a score injured by an explosion today in the mixing works of the Nobel explosive factory at Arder, Ayrshire. The entire plant was wrecked by the blast, which is believed to have been caused by the carelessness of an employe.

COSTS BOSTON $10,000 DAILY TO REMOVE SNOW

Boston's little snow frolic is costing the city approximately $10,000 a day, according to estimates furnished today from the office of Commissioner of Public Works Rourke.

Besides the city's regular force of 1,100 men and 350 teams, costing in the vicinity of $6,000 a day, the work of removing the snow is being supplemented by 600 men and 150 teams of private contractors, for which the city is paying more than $2,000 a day. Already $40,000 has been spent in the past ten days.

Contractors receive from 30 to 40 cents a cubic yard for the work, according to the location of the snow removed. A system of checks and counter checks superintended by twelve engineers and twenty-five inspectors from the city offices prevent errors and overcharges on the part of the contractors.

Bids for the removal of snow were advertised last November and contracts awarded to the following lowest bidders: J. C. Coleman & Sons, Joseph McGreevey, C. L. Jacobs & Co., Coleman Brothers, and James M. Kiley. Coleman Brothers have the major portion of the contract.

Commissioner of Public Works Rourke said today:

"The department has received fewer complaints on account of the snow than ever before. You could count the number of such complaints on your ten fingers. The Elevated has co-operated with the city to a reasonable degree and deserves praise for its good work."

SMOOTH HAIR, TINY HATS

Here is the latest dictum of fashion which will bring about a marked change in the styles that have prevailed for many months:

THE HAIR should be smooth and drawn from the temples, veiling the ears. It should be drawn far out at the crown of the head, but no knot should show.

THE HAT is now to be perched on top of the head to show the hair. Brim small, crown low, trimming high, one favorite being the "Wigwam," with feathers rising twelve inches and meeting like an Indian tepee.

Hope for Schooner Kineo Abandoned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Hope of finding the schooner Kineo practically has been abandoned by revenue cutter officials in Washington, and it is believed that the big five-masted steel vessel with all on board has been lost. Search for the ship, discontinued yesterday by the revenue cutter Onondaga, which was forced to put into Norfolk for coal, was taken up today by the revenue cutter Itasca. The last heard from the Kineo was at 8 o'clock on the morning of February 18 when the schooner, her hold filling at the rate of twelve inches an hour and in need of immediate aid, was sighted by the steamship City of Atlanta, 160 miles northeast of Diamond Shoals lightship, off Cape Hatteras.

Try Count for Killing Wife and Her Nephew

MERITZ, Germany, Feb. 20.—Count Matthias Brudzewo Mielczynski, the Polish nobleman who killed his wife and her nephew, Count Alfred Mincinski, at the family castle near Great on December 20, because of the Countess' infatuation for her relative, was placed on trial here today and pleaded guilty. The charge against the accused nobleman was manslaughter instead of murder, as the crown prosecutor held that the Count had probably been crazed by jealousy and did not premeditate the killing.

Canadian Officials Arrest a Minister

CLERGY SPLIT OVER CALL TO BILLY SUNDAY

There is a big tempest in a teapot over whether or not "Billy" Sunday, the baseball evangelist, is to be invited to come to Boston to hold a big revival.

One faction of the ministers of Boston, headed by the Rev. Cortland Myers of Tremont Temple, wants him to come.

Another faction, much larger in numbers, headed by the Rev. Charles Parkhurst, is against his coming and condemns him and his methods as vulgar, sensational and blasphemous.

At a recent ministers' meeting when the plans were suggested, there was an indignant protest from some three-fourths of the ministers present.

Rev. Charles Parkhurst, editor of Zion's Herald, heads the opposition. Dr. Parkhurst says: "Sunday calls some ministers names because they do not take to his methods.

"He uses a sensationalism that passes colloquy from vulgarity to profanity and from profanity to blasphemy. He strips religion of reverence, and leaves it naked in the gutter for the sport of the ribald. He alienates the thoughtful mind and tender spirit. He is commercialized. He leaves bitterness in the ministerial fellowship. We don't want him here."

One of Sunday's converts, who is in Boston, said: "It was like going through a sewer to be converted at his meetings, but it was worth going through in order to be changed."

How She Discarded Unsightly Complexion

(Mona Morrow in Town Tattler)

How often I exclaimed as I beheld my ugly complexion in the mirror. "If I only could take off that old skin!" And do you know, I've learned how to do that very thing! Not to merely remove the entire skin all of a sudden that would be too severe a method and painful, too, I imagine. The worn-out cuticle comes off in tiny, tiny particles, and so gradual-ly—requiring about ten days to complete the transformation—it doesn't hurt a bit. Day by day the beautiful complexion underneath comes forth Marvelous! No matter how muddy, rough, blotchy or aged your complexion, you can send it away by this simple process. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at your druggist's, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off morning.

My wonder is I got rid of by an equally simple method. By dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in half-pint witch hazel and bathing my face in the solution, every line completely disappeared. Then the finer lines, finally even the deep crow's feet, vanished entirely.

HOT ATTACK ON ADMIRAL DEWEY STIRS GERMANY

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—A sharp attack on Admiral Dewey in regard to the statements made by him in his autobiography concerning the German fleet at Manila during the Spanish-American war in 1898, made in the Imperial Parliament by Matthias Erzeberger, a leader of the Clerical party, stirred all Germany today. He said the statements of Admiral Dewey had excited the greatest amazement in Germany. Admiral Dewey's autobiography was published in Hearst's Magazine.

Admiral Von Tirpitz, German Minister of Marine, in reply, said he understood Admiral Dewey would issue soon an explanation showing that the conduct of Admiral Von Diederichs, the German commander, and his subordinates, had been absolutely correct.

Admiral Dewey, in relating the incident in Manila Bay, says it arose through Admiral Von Diederich's disinclination to observe the rules of blockade established by the Americans, one of which was that neutral warships entering the bay should report to the Americans.

The German vessel Carmoran disobeyed the rule and a shot was fired across her bows, which had the desired effect. Explanations followed the next day and there was no further interference with the blockade.

NATION-WIDE INQUIRY ON R. R. IMPORT RATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A nation-wide inquiry into the relationship of international and domestic rates on railroads today was ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Imported merchandise is carried from the various ports of the country to interior points at a less rate than is exacted on domestic shipments from the ports to interior points. Many complaints have been received of discrimination in favor of imported merchandise, and it is the desire of the commission to readjust matters so as to eliminate this alleged unreasonable handicap to American shippers.

NOW SAY KOCH TUBERCULIN IS POSITIVE CURE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—More than fifty physicians received their first lesson in the treatment of tuberculosis with Koch tuberculin by an improved method at the Polyclinic Hospital, the first medical institution in the United States to provide a course of instruction in the use of this remedy. Under the supervision of Dr. John A. Wyeth, president of the Polyclinic Hospital, the course was begun by Dr. Ellis Bonhoff.

When the tuberculin of the late Dr. Robert Koch of Germany was first administered in 1891 it was a disastrous failure. Today by the new method of treatment, by doctors told his students, tuberculin effects a cure in practically 100 per cent. of bone and gland cases. It also cures 100 per cent. of cases of tuberculosis of the lungs in the first stage, 99 per cent. of cases in the second stage, but it cannot be used successfully in the third stage. When it is used during the last stage its effect is likely to hasten death.

The reason that the remedy was a failure during the first years after its discovery is that the dosage was too great. Formerly from one-tenth of a milligramme to a milligramme of the tuberculin was the initial injection. This is from 1,000,000 to 10,000,000 times as great as the first dose now administered. The large dose reduced reaction which made the disease more virulent than before.

Senator Root Silent on His Candidacy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Senator Root declined today to discuss his possible candidacy to succeed himself. Many of his Republican colleagues would like to see him make the race, but in private talks he has said he would not be a candidate. One of his most intimate associates said the Senator had told him only two days ago that no circumstances could arise that would induce him to be a candidate.

Chinatown 'Angel' to Talk on 'Slavery'

Mrs. Rose Livingston, the "Angel of New York's Chinatown," who bears upon her breast a deep scar where she was once stabbed by a white slaver, and who has again and again been desperately beaten, in her fights to rescue lost girls, will next Wednesday evening speak at Ford Hall on "Methods of the White Slavers."

Collapse Near for Haytien Revolt

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Feb. 20.—Members of the Zamor government predicted today that the Northern revolution headed by General Davilm Theodore will collapse before Sunday. Theodore's troops who were defeated at Grande Riviere are in flight toward Cape Haytien pursued by a government force.

Restless Night for Bishop Kennedy

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 20.—There is little change in the condition of Bishop Thomas F. Kennedy, rector of the American College at Rome, who is ill of pneumonia at his sister's home at Conshohocken. The prelate passed a restless night and his condition is still critical.

Cats Give Fire Alarm, Then Die in Flames

Mewing loudly, Mrs. Ellen Prendergville's two valuable Angora cats gave the alarm for a fire in the house where they were left at No. 539 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, and then perished in the smoke and flames. A collie was found later, crouched under the kitchen range, where he had escaped the blaze.

Judge Lindsey's Bride Is Stricken

DENVER, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Ben B. Lindsey, bride of Judge Lindsey of the Juvenile Court, is in St. Luke's Hospital suffering from a slight attack of heart trouble. Mrs. Lindsey, who came here as a bride only a few weeks ago, has entered actively into the social life of this city and it is believed that this activity brought about her indisposition.

MISS BEATRICE BERDOE, who will dance at the "Merrie England Frolic" pageant of the British Charitable Society ball.

Pageant for British Charitable Ball

A pageant of "Ye Merrie England Frolics" will be a feature of the sixth annual ball of the British Charitable Society, popularly known as the "British charity ball," which takes place in Symphony Hall this evening.

Solo dances by Miss Beatrice Berdoe and others will enhance the pageant. The latter will follow as closely as possible the ancient festival which is produced annually on the village green at Knutsford, England. There will be a minute crowning of the May Queen, a flower girl dance, dance of the villagers and Scottish dances.

Elect Ex-Alderman for Geraghty's Job

The Woburn City Council has elected ex-Alderman James Corrigan of Ward Five as alderman-at-large to fill the vacancy caused by the disqualification of John E. Geraghty, the chauffeur-husband of Julia French, the Newport and New York heiress, who was found not to have lived long enough in Woburn to serve.

Discovery Comes After 3000 Years

Buffalo House Takes the Taste Out of Castor Oil.

Since the earliest days of medicine chemists have been trying to take the taste out of castor oil.

The secret has at last been discovered by Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, who are among the largest producers and refiners of vegetable oils in the world. They have removed the castor oil taste, and smell, too, purifying the oil and making it better and more effective. Nothing is added to it, nothing good taken out of it.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is tasteless in the true sense. Even children take it easily; for all the nauseating effect is removed.

Sold now at all drug stores in 25c and 50c sizes. Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil by name, for there are several preparations of castor oil, mixed and flavored, which are not tasteless and do not act as well.

The public is protected by the trade mark, a green castor leaf, bearing the signature, Kellogg's.

Old-Time Cold Cure—Drink Tea

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

SOCIETY WOMEN PURCHASE DOGS AS SHOW ENDS

Another record crowd of society women flocked to the final day of the show of the Eastern Dog Club in Mechanics Building, today to see the $200,000 worth of champions on exhibition.

Many of them asked the price on some of the leaders, many good sales having been made. Among the dogs sold was:

The French bull dog puppy Gamin Fourth, purchased of T. J. Murphy of Dorchester by Mrs. L. C. Page of Brookline for $250.

Miss Margaret Brigham sold Albourne Afterthought to Miss Dorothy Arnold of New York and a bitch puppy to Mme. Lee Choteau of the Boston Opera Company. Mrs. Nicholas Brown sold to Mrs. Hilda Kelly of New York a Boston terrier puppy for $250. The sale was made on the strength of the likeness of the puppy to his grand sire, Croftregis Jo Jo.

Mrs. A. Schultz of Needham disposed of a French bull dog to Mr. Ford of Toledo. Miss Marion Porter sold the King Charles Admiral Porter and the Blenheim Duke of Argyl, both having won seconds in their classes, to George Cushing of Boston. Miss Dorothy Hall of Commonwealth avenue was the purchaser of Corey Hill Wankon, a wire-haired fox terrier, from F. A. Cadwell. Mrs. Nicholas Brown was the purchaser of a sister of the dog Miss Hall bought.

Kirkpatrick Heads Harvard Freshmen

The Harvard freshman class has named as its president, Oran C. Kirkpatrick of San Antonio, Tex.; vice-president, John E. P. Morgan of New York; secretary-treasurer, Westmore Willcox, Jr., of Norfolk, Va.; for the student council, H. B. Cabot, Jr., of Brookline, J. C. Harris of Brookline and Edward A. Teschner of Lawrence.

Cat Goes Music Mad

City Market for Poor

Took Affinity Home

In the crowds that flocked to the Chicago municipal grocery where the city sells food at cost prices County Agent Meyer recognized a dozen maids and butlers who admitted they were buying for families whose incomes are more than $2000 a week. He refused to sell groceries to them.

Any women promoting a tea party to induce women voters to come out and register for the coming election will be prosecuted under the corrupt practices act according to an announcement by County Attorney McCaffery of Butte, Montana.

Just as Mrs. August Juno's daughter Elsie began playing the piano, in their New York home, the family cat went mad and before it was killed, bit Mrs. Juno, Elsie, a citizen and a policeman.

Mrs. Harriet Hubler of Camden, N. J., was released on a bigamy charge when she produced a receipt showing she had paid her lawyer $100 to obtain a divorce. She thought it was the decree.

Miss Luella Knight, twenty-one, of Brooklyn, will travel 15,000 miles to Manila, where she will wed Edward C. Walters, a government employe.

In her suit for divorce Mrs. Rachael O. Van Arsdale of New York alleged that her husband brought his affinity home and sang love songs to her.

Trying to Break the Coal Deadlock

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—Without any indication of a break in the deadlock between the anthracite operators and the miners, representatives of both sides in the conference settled down to work today in an attempt to thrash out their differences. The chief stumbling block in the way of an agreement was the request of the miners that the operators adopt the check-off system by which the workers' union dues might be deducted from their wages.

REPORT MRS. MACKAY WILL MARRY AGAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Close friends of Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay said today they understood she would remain abroad as the sequel of the divorce decree granted by the Paris courts. Her lawyer and Mackay's attorney were in conference yesterday as to the terms of settlement. Mrs. Mackay, it is said, will receive $100,000 a year in consideration of her surrender of the $4,000,000 Harbor Hill estate at Roslyn, L. I.

Mrs. Mackay said to the AMERICAN correspondent in Paris today:

"The divorce was granted me February 11. I must absolutely decline to say anything else."

Concerning the report that she was about to marry a New York lawyer, she remained mute. The news of the divorce, cabled from New York, came like a thunderbolt to Paris friends of the Mackays.

Frederic R. Coudert, Mackay's lawyer, was asked if the Catholic Church would be asked to annul the marriage so Mr. Mackay could marry again without violating church laws. His reply was:

"That is a guess. I can't talk about the matter."

John H. Stanchfield, counsel for Mrs. Mackay, was equally reticent.

"Mrs. Mackay shuns the publicity of this case, and for that reason, found a pleasant haven in Paris, where the divorce was obtained very quickly," said the AMERICAN'S informant. "The French newspapers are forbidden by law to publish reports of divorce suits."

"I do not believe it true that Mrs. Mackay will receive suffrage work in New York or England. Before she left this country she told me she felt like spending the rest of her life abroad."

Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, whose domestic difficulties with her husband have been linked with the matrimonial troubles of the Mackays, declined to discuss the case when seen today.

TAKE MACKAY TIP

Paris for Divorce Mixed

400 FORGETS RENO

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Either John B. Stanchfield, counsel for Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, or Frederic R. Coudert, counsel for Clarence H. Mackay, has discovered that Paris is a most desirable mecca for couples who seek divorce, more so than Reno," said a distinguished lawyer today.

"All that is necessary is for the wife to announce that she intends to become a resident of Paris and to live there, say ninety days. The husband appears in court, the polite judge calmly tries to reconcile them—they are given a mutual divorce, legal all over the world.

"Why, such a divorce can be obtained quietly during a continental journey—even during a honeymoon tour."

Haverhill Has $1,000 Fire.

HAVERHILL, Feb. 20.—The leather district was threatened by fire when a blaze was discovered in the Gardner block. Leather dealers in the building suffered a loss of over $1,000.

WALTHAM HIGH CAPITAL TRIPS CALLED MENACE

Trips of Waltham High School classes to Washington an annual custom with the seniors, were declared a menace by superintendent of schools William H. Parkhurst. He declares the school authorities no longer care to assume the responsibility for chaperoning the pupils at least until some arrangement is made by which the boys and the girls make the trip separately, he says, in part:

"Teachers more or more shrink from assuming a responsibility which involves possibilities as grave as a fatal accident and a life to life ending satisfaction.

"It is time to consider whether the school should longer assume this responsibility. From Washington to Boston is a long distance for a school to extend itself, and our experience has shown that automatic supervision is necessary to safely maintain discipline conducted.

"Some of the difficulties would happen if the trip were taken by the boys went at separate times."

Rub Pains From Sore, Lame Back

Rub Backache Away With Small Trial Bottle of Old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

PUTS AN END TO BACKACHE MAKES WEAK KIDNEYS STRONG

A Few Doses Give Relief, Helps Lifeless Organs Regain Health, Strength and Activity.

It is useless, dangerous, and unnecessary to be tortured with the digging, twisting pains of backache and rheumatism, or suffer with disagreeable kidney and bladder disorders any longer.

The new discovery, Croxone, provides a remedy which every sufferer can now depend upon to promptly and surely relieve all such misery and bring about a speedy cure.

Croxone cures these troubles because it quickly overcomes the very cause of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the membranes and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and makes the kidneys filter and sift from the blood all the waste and poisonous matter that clog the system and cause such troubles.

It does not matter whether you have but slight symptoms or the most chronic, aggravated case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism that it is possible to imagine, for the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it, and relieves you the first time you use it, and all the misery and suffering that go with such troubles end.

You can secure an original package of Croxone from any first class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

YALE MEN TAKE SHOW GIRLS TO "FRAT" TOMBS

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 20.—Ten Yale students who have been indefinately suspended for visiting one of the fraternity tombs early in the morning with members of Blanche Ring's musical comedy company, now face expulsion by the secret society in whose rooms the antics occurred.

Dean Jones of the academic department refused to make known the names of the suspended students, saying it would benefit no one. He gives as the reason for their departure, "misconduct." The student body is also very quiet concerning the affair.

Following the performance of "When Claudia Smiles," at the Hyperion, the students entertained many of the show girls in the grill room of the Hotel Taft. There was dancing, and later in the wee small hours some of the students took some of the girls to one of the fraternity tombs, where only members are supposed to go, and there had some dancing and some singing.

HOW I KEPT HOUSE WITHOUT A SERVANT.

Third of a series of articles on modern methods of business efficiency applied to the house by an intelligent woman of means and refinement who finds it easier to do her own work than to be forever annoyed by stupid and overpaid servants.

1,500 Take Part in Jordan Marsh Ball

Fifteen hundred people crowded Horticultural Hall last night for the annual ball of Jordan Marsh Company Mutual Aid Association organization which in its eight and a half years of existence has paid $51,000 in benefits. Although the tango was barred, the old-fashioned two steps and waltzes seemed to satisfy the dancers. Besides the dancing there was a program which included a quartet consisting of Eleanor Fox Allen, Edith Langrey-Underhill, Edith Louise Munroe and Kathleen Russell-Cook; a duet, Mabel M. Spencer and John J. Rochefort; a 'cello solo by Rose A. Garrity, a song by Reginald King and a group of singers called Ted Snyder's Serenaders.

Willis L. Bailey was marshal, Frederick W. Walkers and Harry F. Torrey, assistant marshals; James H. Sherry, floor director, assisted by Walter L. London and Joseph T. Hagan.

The managing committee consisted of William J. Corbett, chairman; Frederick W. Walchers, John Y. Flinn, Walter N. London, Herman H. Howard, David W. Edwards, Mary A. Robinson and Mary E. Gorman.

Plan Big Meeting for Fire Protection

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Pilgrim Publicity Association, the Master Builders' Association and other organizations gathered in the New England Insurance Exchange assembly room to discuss arrangements for a mass meeting in Faneuil Hall to plan methods of fire protection. The meeting, scheduled for next Tuesday evening, is designed to educate in fire-prevention and fire-protection.

Dog Derby Won by Pope's Dilwayne

Seek Custody of Child in Academy

Herbert A. Buck and Alice L. (Thompson) Buck of Wilmington filed a petition in the Suffolk Superior Court seeking the custody of Alice Augusta Thompson, eight, who is in St. Dominic's Academy at Watertown. According to the petition, the child is the daughter of Alice L. (Thompson) Buck and Lindsey H. Thompson, who were divorced in Maine in 1910. The child lived after June 1, 1908, with Herbert A. Buck and his wife, Susan G. Buck.

MISS SLATER MAKES DEBUT IN NEW HOME

Miss Ray Slater, daughter of Mrs. Horatio N. Slater of No. 418 Beacon street, was a notable addition to the list of the season's society buds today, following her debut, which was also a housewarming at the new Slater mansion.

Mrs. Slater's second daughter formally entered society amid surroundings like those of a fairy wonderland. Mrs. Slater has had personal charge of the furnishing of the new home, and the 250 guests received with invitations declared she had inherited great taste from her father, the late William Morris Hunt, who was a celebrated painter.

There was a notable list of ushers, including Junius Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, Stuyvesant Chandler, Robert Potter, Louis Curtis, Sherman Thorndike, Coleman Jennings, Neville Ford, Richard Everett, Theodore Chadwick and Dudley L. Pickman, Jr.

Miss Esther Slater, Mrs. Slater's elder daughter, who was presented last year, was among those present.

Hundreds of choice examples of classic art from all parts of the world, collected by Mrs. Slater in person, figure in the house furnishings.

Roma's Passengers Taken to New York

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 20.—The 163 steerage passengers of the liner Roma, held here on account of typhus infection, were sent by special train to New York today. The Roma will enter New York to repair damages sustained from her pounding for six hours on the rocks of No Man's Land during the blizzard of Monday.

Hesitation Waltz Is Allowed; Bar Tango

The first annual concert of the Massachusetts Normal Art School Musical Club was given at the school hall. This hesitation waltz was included in the list of dances, but the program announced that "consistent dancing in the Normal Art School Hall calls for the elimination of the tango, the castle walk, all dips, hops and trots, and the maintaining of 'West Point distance.'"

Cardinal Cadets Win Prize Drill

Over 1,000 persons attended the prize drill of the Cardinal Cadets of St. Mary's parish, Charlestown, in Monahan's Hall. Unusually well performed drills, addresses and dancing occupied the evening. First prize for company drill went to C company, Captain David Magner, and second to B company, Captain Newman Flanagan.

Show Gowns Worn by Presidents' Wives

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Many of the original gowns worn by the first ladies of the land on state occasions, and draped on pulster figures, will be placed on exhibition at the National Museum beginning next Monday. The collections will show how the wives of the Presidents from Martha Washington to Mrs. Taft wore garbed in the style of their day.

By THE DOWAGER.

Among the interesting events for today is the dance which Mrs. Gardiner Bullard is giving at her Brookline home "Ravenscliffe," for this season's debutantes. The guest of honor is Miss Frances Curtis of Jamaica Plain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Curtis, who was formally presented at a dance at the Country Club earlier in the season.

Another interesting affair is the dinner dance which Mrs. Alexander S. Brown gives at the Country Club for her daughter, Miss Gwynedd Brown.

The largest and most important affair, however, is the last assembly of the Cadet Club, which each year is winds up the season so far as large dancing affairs are concerned.

* * *

Mrs. Llewellyn Powers of Brookline entertained the members of the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children Association at her apartment in the Beaconsfield today, when her guests enjoyed the privilege of hearing Miss Cornelia Ripley, who has just returned from Paris, where she has been studying art for several years, give a vivid description of the chateaux of Touraine. Music and simple refreshments were enjoyed after the reading talk. Mrs. Powers is the widow of former Governor Powers of Maine. There were about three hundred invited to the meeting.

* * *

Mrs. Frank Richmond Briggs of Manchester road, Brookline, is planning a late Winter dance at the Belmont Spring Country Club. Mrs. Monroe and Mrs. Horace Wood of Brookline entertained at a dance at the Brae-Burn Club on Tuesday evening.

* * *

Mrs. Rudolph L. Agassiz will entertain at dinner Saturday night before the last of the series of subscription dances for the sub-buds at the Somerset. Her hospitality is in honor of her daughter, Miss Anna Agassiz. Mrs. Agassiz, Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Converse have been the matrons at these dances throughout the Winter.

TIE ON CHOICE IN BROOKLINE OF 5TH SELECTMAN

Only four candidates were nominated for the five places on the Board of Selectmen at the Brookline caucus last night, because two other candidates received a tie vote. After the announcement of the vote, nomination papers were prepared for Selectman William Craig, member of the Board, who was not nominated; George H. Abbott, a real estate investment broker in the Coolidge Corner section, who received the same number of votes as Mr. Craig, 353, declared today that he will file nomination papers.

The successful candidates and their votes were: Chairman Philip S. Parker, 584; Walter J. Cusick, 474; Payson Hunt, Hirchwood E. Dane, 387.

Interest was shown in the three contests for the Board of Assessors. Fogg, Cassidy was defeated. The candidates nominated were Dr. Henry Whidden, 520 votes; Frank E. Arthur A. Cushing, renominated, 528 votes, and Walter Humphreys, renominated, 528 votes.

BIG CONTEST ON REPEAL OF FREE TOLLS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. — That President Wilson will be able to get Congress into line for the repeal of the free Panama Canal tolls act, providing he will be willing to assume primary responsibility for not obeying the Democratic platform promises and will not attempt to force the issue immediately, was the opinion expressed today by members of the Senate and House.

Representative Henry, chairman of the House Rules Committee, has told President Wilson that he believes the repeal of the tolls provision can be passed by both House and Senate within sixty days.

Representative Sims of Tennessee, ranking Democratic member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, and one of the leaders in the administration fight, outlined the situation when he said:

"The free tolls clause will be repealed by a Democratic vote of at least three to one. The question will be taken up in the House whenever the President is ready to have it taken up, and will be disposed of promptly. The clause was put through as a Republican measure, 54 Republicans voting for it and 33 against it. There were 23 more Democratic votes against free tolls than for them. The President has a big majority with him on this question."

Representative Knowland of California, Republican member of the committee and one of the prominent fill if the President did not interfere by calling Individual Democrats into conference. A majority of the Republicans in the House are against the repeal of this clause," said Knowland.

Republican Leader Mann is preparing to make one of the most stubborn fights of his career against the repeal. He is not, however, supported by all of the leaders on the Republican side. It became known today that Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Underwood would stand out on the Baltimore platform.

It is considered improbable, however, that either will take the field against the President on this issue.

While this situation exists in the House the Senate has shown a disposition to balk at the proposal. Of seventy members who have expressed their attitude, 35 are in favor of the repeal and 35 are against it.

TWO NATIONS UNITE TO SAVE VILLA CAPTIVE

EL PASO, Feb. 20.—Both the American and British governments will demand from General Villa an explanation of the disappearance of William S. Benton, a British subject, who quarrelled with the Constitutionalist commander in Juarez on Wednesday.

British residents of this city today telegraphed to Consul Henry Chamberlain at Los Angeles a request that he hurry here to take up the hunt for their countryman, as they feared he would be executed on charges that he had threatened to kill Villa. Benton owns a ranch in Chihuahua and is said to have drawn a revolver and threatened to shoot the rebel leader.

United States Consul Edwards is also acting. Villa denies that Benton is being held prisoner in Juarez, but refused to discuss the report that he has been secretly taken to Chihuahua and locked up.

The German government will also serve notice on Villa that it expects fair treatment for William Busch, the railroad man accused of being a spy.

American military authorities breathed easier today with Maximo Castillo, the bandit chieftain, safe in a steel cell in Fort Bliss. Heavy guards have been placed upon the cells in which Castillo and General Ynes Salazar are confined to prevent their escape and to guard them from harm without.

In a statement issued from his cell Castillo declares his innocence and calls upon the American people to see that he gets justice.

"Not only am I innocent," declares Castillo, "of any responsibility for the awful crime committed at Cuevas, but I did not hear that the tunnel had been destroyed until several days after it happened. I have never killed nor ordered a man killed even in line of military duty, except in battle on one occasion. This victim was guilty of murder."

Rheumatic Blood—THE Story That Millions Tell—The Way to Prompt Recovery

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not, for rheumatism, but they all lack the first essential to being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains, and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, aching joints may be eased with narcotics or the acids may be neutralized for the time being. But such methods merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is a standard rheumatism remedy, and it is sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. S. Attempts are often made to sell something claimed to be "just as good." Insist positively that you will have nothing but S. S. S.

It contains only purely vegetable elements and is absolutely free of mercury, iodide of potash or arsenic. The recoveries of all types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. are a fine tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as nature's and just as well obtained as the most accessible meat roast or most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. You will be astonished at the results. If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a specialist write to the medical department The Swift Specific Co., 107 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Cunningham's theatrical contract expires Saturday night. Incidentally she announces the tendering of an elaborate banquet to her fellow players on the Shubert Theatre stage after the performance Saturday night.

BABY ONE WEEK OLD HAD ECZEMA

On Head and Neck. Kept Getting Worse. Cross and Fretful. Did Not Sleep. Suffered Six Weeks. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

297 Lake St., St. Albans, Vt.—"When my baby was only one week old the back of his head and neck began to look red and swollen. It kept getting worse until the back of his head and neck were just one watery raw sore. The skin around the sore was very red and also inflamed. I think the sores itched and they burned terribly. He was very cross and fretful. He did not sleep only when he had worried himself sick and then he would cry out in his sleep.

"I tried ——— also ——— and I used everything I thought would help it. After he was six weeks old I began to think of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so I sent for one cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I bathed the sores in very hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment with a soft cloth. I had used them only two or three times when he was relieved and began to sleep. After two weeks he was cured and the back of his head and neck looked as well as any other baby's." (Signed) Mrs. Joseph Cota, May 5, 1913.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

PAPE'S! BREAKS A COLD AT ONCE

$15.50

Relief come instantly.

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold, either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up. Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

SCHWAB FAVORS REWARDS FOR EFFICIENT MEN

"Great corporations have worked great benefit for this country, but in one respect — the deadening of individual initiative and enterprise — they often do great harm," insisted Charles M. Schwab, ship builder and steel man, addressing the members of the Commercial Club.

"It was this spirit of individual initiative that gave to this country its splendid industrial impetus, and it should be revived and encouraged if we are to maintain our present position.

He asserted that within ten years the annual production of steel will reach 60,000,000 tons, whereas thirty years ago it was but 1,000,000 tons.

Speaking of the competition with foreign countries, he said: "If we had the same opportunity to get into their countries that they have to get into ours it would be all right, but we cannot get into Austria, Germany, France or Russia. They can send surplus over here, however.

"I believe all conditions being equal, we can compete with any country in the world."

RANTOUL DEATH THREAT BY PHONE

Wife Says Husband Called Her Up to Say He Was Going to Kill Himself.

toul's doubtful answer. Mr. Hunt wasn't satisfied with that.

"Don't you know, Mrs. Rantoul," demanded the lawyer, "whether you kissed another man beside your husband?"

"I suppose I did, when he kissed me," replied Edward L. Rantoul's wife.

Mrs. Rantoul testified that in the summer of 1911 she went to Gardner field for a week, that her husband came with his bag, prepared to stay, that she told him she couldn't let him stay, and that he soon left.

Rantoul came to see her, she testified, stayed to supper and left in the evening. She admitted that she tried to have the hotel clerk provide her with a private sitting room while Rantoul was there, but the clerk "couldn't provide the room," as Mr. Hunt expressed it.

TELEPHONED OFTEN.

Mr. Hunt asked her if she knew that she telephoned Rantoul at his Milk street office three hundred times in a few months in 1911, sixty times that January and forty-five times in March.

Mrs. Rantoul admitted that she wouldn't be surprised to hear it, if Mr. Hunt said so. "I telephoned whenever I pleased," she added.

Mrs. Rantoul said she told her sister, Mrs. Stanley Cunningham, that she had confessed to her husband and asked his help, but did not get it.

She denied "absolutely" ever having told Mr. Rantoul's sister, Edith, that Rantoul was "as good as gold."

When Mr. Hunt asked her if she ever told Rantoul to "go to ——" she replied "I did."

But she denied having "spit in his face."

Mrs. Rantoul resumed the stand today for continued cross-examination, but, before this began, Thomas W. Proctor, her own lawyer, was allowed to interject a few additional questions in direct examination on a point that he had forgotten yesterday. This related to a threat of suicide which Mrs. Rantoul said that her husband made to her over the telephone on December 13, 1911.

DEATH THREAT BY 'PHONE.

Mrs. Rantoul, in answer to questions, said:

"Mr. Rantoul did not come home that night. About 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning I got word from him to 'telephone.' He said he was going to kill himself, that he was going to do it then. It frightened me terribly. I did not sleep all night. The next thing in the morning I went to see Dr. Putnam."

The cross-examination was taken up by Mr. Hunt, who began by asking whether Mrs. Rantoul deceived her husband about the diamond earrings he bought her.

"I don't know as there was any deception," replied Mrs. Rantoul.

"Didn't you keep from your husband the source whence the earrings came?" asked Mr. Hunt.

"I didn't tell him when I got them or from whom they came."

"You got them in June but he did not hear of it until July?"

Mrs. Rantoul admitted this.

"Then there was deception as to time and source of this gift?" pursued the husband's lawyer.

The wife admitted the point again.

Then Mr. Hunt returned to the "kissing" question.

The court was well filled when the hearing began. Increasing interest in the Rantoul case among smart society people was evident. Mrs. Rantoul was on hand in good season, prepared for her ordeal. Mr. Rantoul sat by his counsel while his wife was being quizzed about these vital matters of her life.

Attorney Hunt laid considerable emphasis on Mrs. Rantoul's friendship for Nellie Bernett, who had a flat on Westland avenue.

Q.—Did you visit her with Mr. Rantoul at her flat? A.—On one occasion. Mr. Rumrill and I were on our way down town in his motor car.

Q.—Did you tell Miss Bernheimer that you were in love with Mr. Rumrill? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you confide your love to her? A.—In April, 1911.

Q.—And you had told Dr. Burnes in March, a month previous? A.—Yes.

Q.—And both of these people knew it before Mr. Rantoul? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell any other person before you told your husband of your love for Mr. Rumrill? A.—I don't remember that I did.

Q.—When did you first realize that you were in love with Mr. Rumrill? A.—Soon after my mother died in 1909.

Q.—When did you first speak to Mr. Rumrill about your love for him? A.—I didn't speak to him of it.

Q.—When did he speak to you of his love or sentiment? A.—I don't recall that he spoke to me of it. Each knew the other's sentiment.

Q.—How far did you go with your love? A.—That is a difficult question to answer. I let him kiss me.

Q.—How many times? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Try to give us some idea? A.—Not more than three or four times.

Q.—Did Mr. Rumrill give you all three kisses at once? A.—No.

Q.—Did you kiss Mr. Rumrill? A.—I suppose I did.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. and Mrs. Neal Rantoul that you were going to leave your husband, and that you wished to settle all of your property on the children? A.—No.

Q.—Did you say that Mr. Rumrill had enough for both of you? A.—I certainly did not say that (with default emphasis).

Q.—Did you say that you were sorry for your husband? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you tell them that until your new love for Mr. Rumrill came you loved your husband Edward well enough? A.—No. I said nothing of the sort.

Q.—Didn't you say that since the new love came you find it impossible to live with Edward or to love him? A.—I did not.

Q.—Didn't you say that Mr. Rumrill brought out the best of the spiritual, intellectual side of your natures and love? A.—I may have said something like that.

Q.—Did you say that it was hard for you to leave your children, but that you must? A.—I did not say so.

Q.—Didn't you say that Edward would let you go quietly to Mr. Rumrill if he was permitted to keep the children? A.—No, I did not.

WITNESS HESITATES.

Q.—Did you say that it was your husband's suspicion that had precipitated the whole thing? A.—No. Answering this question and Mr. Proctor, her counsel, said: "This is something the witness are going to claim you told them. Go ahead and answer it.

A.—I never said it.

Q.—Did Mr. Rumrill come to see you at your home on July 17, 1911? A.—He did.

Q.—And it was by your arrangement? A.—It was.

Q.—And with the permission of your husband? A.—Yes.

Q.—But you had demanded the meeting? A.—Yes.

Q.—What time did he arrive? A.—Between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning.

Q.—And you insisted on seeing him in the library alone? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rantoul that if you were not permitted to see him at your home that you would go out there and see him at Salem? A.—I did not, no.

Q.—But you insisted upon seeing him there? A.—Yes.

Q.—What for? A.—Because of things that had happened I wished to talk with him alone and let him know what I had done.

Q.—And were you permitted by your husband to talk with him alone there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did your husband then join you and Mr. Rumrill at the conference? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was it then suggested that Mr. Rumrill should leave Quincy and go abroad? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you say "that what is to become of me?" A.—No.

Q.—Did Mr. Rumrill then go to Mr. Colman's office? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you follow him there? A.—I went that evening, but did not follow him.

Q.—Did your husband joint you later? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you then go to Greenfield? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did your husband see you to the train and say good-by? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did your husband call on you at the hotel at Greenfield? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you told him you wouldn't let him stay and that he must go home? A.—Yes.

Q.—And did he go home? A.—Yes.

Q.—After that did Mr. Rumrill call at Greenfield to see you at the hotel? A.—He did.

Q.—Did you receive him? A.—I did.

Q.—How long did he stay? A.—He stayed for supper and then left. He arrived in the afternoon.

Q.—Do you know a James M. Colman? A.—Yes.

Q.—He has an office with Mr. Rumrill at No. 87 Milk street, hasn't he? A.—Yes.

KEPT TELEPHONE BUSY.

Q.—Would you be surprised to find that the telephone records show that you telephoned to Mr. Colman's office 100 times in a few months in 1911? A.—I would not, if you say so; you have the records evidently.

Q.—Will you be surprised to learn that you telephoned sixty times in January and forty-five times in March. A.—No, if you say so. I telephoned whenever I pleased.

Q.—Do you remember talking with your married sister, Mrs. Stanley Cunningham, about Mr. Rumrill and your love for him? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell your sister that your love for Mr. Rumrill was too strong to resist and that you loved him deeply? A.—I did not. I simply told my sister that I loved him and that I had loved him for some time. I said nothing about the depth of the love. I simply said I had received my husband for seven months or more, but that I had told him everything. I was sorry for my deception. I told my sister that I wanted my husband's help. I told her that I asked him for his help and assistance. I wanted him to share my burden with me and to give me his help, but he did not.

Q.—In March, 1912, did you tell your husband's sister, Edith, that your husband was as good as gold? The gist being that? asked Mr. Hunt. A.—"Absolutely," said Mrs. Rantoul, in a firm voice.

Q.—Did you say to Mr. Rantoul's sister, Margaret, "Edward said he was in love with me when I was good, but while I was bad?" A.—I did.

Q.—Did you say to Mr. Rantoul's sister, Henriett, that Edward, in your opinion, was the flower of the family? A.—I can't remember.

Q.—Did you say to her that your husband was generous with his money? A.—No.

Q.—Did you say to your brother, Dr. Francis Lowell Burnett of Hudson street, that you still loved Mr. Rumrill? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you tell him that he did not know what a woman's love was? A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell your sister-in-law, Mrs. William G. Rantoul, that Edward was as good as gold? A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell her that you had done wrong, that you had deceived your husband, that you had admitted it and were very sorry for it? A.—I did.

Q.—You had considerable talk with Miss O'Reilly, your nurse, didn't you? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you ever discuss Mr. Rumrill's habits of drinking with her. A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever talk with Miss O'Reilly about your going abroad? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever speak about your going to Paris with the children and that Mr. Rumrill probably would trail along after you? A.—No. Mr. Hunt, I had no talk of that sort with Miss O'Reilly.

Q.—Do you recall Miss O'Reilly asking you what would happen if you should happen to fall out of love with Rumrill and your answer that you were always going to follow Rumrill. A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell Miss O'Reilly that Mr. Rantoul could easily find some nice Salem girl who would make him happy? A.—No.

Q.—Did you say that Rumrill had money and your family would not object to him? A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell her that Rumrill was always more considerate of you than your husband? A.—I probably did. When I had a headache or a backache Mr. Rumrill would not let me drive the car.

GIFTS FROM HUSBAND.

Q.—Did you tell her that you always dressed in pink because Mr. Rumrill liked it? A.—I did not.

Q.—While you were doing charity work for the Children's Aid Society did your husband lunch with you frequently in town? A.—He did.

Q.—He brought you flowers after your operation, didn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—He brought you a gift when he came back from Panama, did he not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you ever tell anyone that you feared your fondness for your husband would tur nto hate? A.—I wrote that once in a letter.

Q.—Did you ever tell your husband to go to hell? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you ever express yourself as perfectly blind with rage at your husband? A. I did.

WHAT IS GOOD TO EAT IN THE MARKET TODAY

For some reason unexplained the price of eggs is going up in Boston and down in the country. Fresh laid "nearby eggs" have gone up from 36 cents to 37 cents in the wholesale market this week, and in places not thirty miles away they are retailing for less than that price. The receipts at Boston were less than normal during the past ten days and dealers say that they are not being shipped out because the shippers fear they would freeze in transit. However, Chicago and St. Louis eggs are arriving daily.

New Bermuda potatoes are coming into Boston in rather larger quantities than heretofore, which is fortunate, for State of Maine potatoes are very scarce, owing principally to zero weather retarding shipments. The jobbing price for Aroostook potatoes ranged from 78 to 85 cents a bushel during the cold weather.

The New Zealand butter that is now arriving in Boston in immense quantities on London ships is graded very high by local dealers and finds a ready sale at top prices.

Cabbage and cauliflower is now being served for dessert in the best families, the present prices for these once despised vegetables putting them in the class with mangoes, South African peaches and other exotics.

Women's City Club Slogan on Stamp

The campaign slogan of the Women's City Club of Boston—"Three to Three Thousand: What's Your Number?"—has taken definite shape in a campaign stamp which is being sold to members for the purpose of advertising the club and increasing its membership among the women of Boston and all New England. The stamp is being used on stationery, as an envelope seal, and in every possible manner.

All Lung Sufferers Should Read This

Every person who is afflicted with throat or lung trouble should, at least, make a personal investigation into the merits of Eckman's Alterative and learn what it has accomplished for many other sufferers. We have never claimed it to be infallible, but from many reports received we are convinced that it is doing a vast amount of good for suffering humanity. To illustrate this case:

"Springfield, Mass.

"Gentlemen—In the month of June, 1910, I had a hemorrhage of the lungs. My family physician pronounced my case lung trouble, and advised that, unless I should stop work at once and go to a sanitarium, he could do nothing for me. After doctoring with him for some time, and getting no better, I decided to change doctors, only to be told the same as the first doctor had told me; in fact, four doctors told me the same story. After suffering for some months, I read of your Alterative, and decided to give it a trial. At that time my throat was so full of small lumps, and was in a very weakened condition. I am glad to say that after I had taken very little of the medicine there was a decided change, and now, after two years, I am entirely well and have felt no return of my trouble for over a year. At the time I had the hemorrhage I was down to 117 lbs., my normal weight was 125. I am now back to my normal weight again.

"(Above abbreviated, name and address on request.)

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

WASTING AWAY

Those That Cannot Eat Without After-Regrets.

"I can't eat, if I did, it would do me no good." How many women are saying this today? But they have to work just the same, whether they eat or not. They grow thin, and haggard, and nervous, and are at their wits' end.

The stomach, liver and bowels cause more trouble than any other part of the body. There are thousands of persons whose food doesn't do them the good it should. They have bad taste in mouth, coated tongue, constipation, gas in stomach, fulness or distress after meals, bloating and belching of wind. They often have headache, are weak and nervous, have sallow complexion and can't sleep.

Dr. Greene's Nervura builds people up because it makes you get the benefit of your food and drives nutrition to the limits of your body by curing your nerves.

Take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for now of all times it is most dangerous to neglect your health, and the system is always made strong and vigorous by this perfect medicine.

Remember, the great advantage of having Dr. Greene at the head of the business, a specialist in nervous diseases, who for 30 years has studied and still stand behind it at all times. Dr. Greene can be consulted by mail free. Write him about your case to his office and laboratory, 507 Albany St., Boston, Mass.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably 100 times as many cases of stomach trouble from acid as from any other cause. In fact, in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and if immediately relieved, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of liquated magnesia (not the ordinary chalky preparations, but the pure aromatic powder which you can obtain from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.—Advt.

EXPERTS URGE BETTER CARE OF STATE'S INSANE

Better care of the insane was urged at a conference of hospital experts, physicians and social workers held at the Twentieth Century Club. Dr. Charles F. Putnam presided. Lieutenant-Governor Barry presided, and assured the gathering of the support of Governor Walsh and the Council.

Dr. Putnam alluded to the progress made in the treatment of the insane since the time, little less than fifty years ago, when morphine and the strait-jacket were the commonest remedies applied. He said:

"A new epoch has come. The silent idea has changed to the hospital idea. The attendant idea has given place to the nurse idea, and in some of the hospitals social service has been introduced. Everything shows people are awakened to the problem.

"In the old days the insane were immured in dungeons because they seemed to be possessed of devils."

Dr. Michael T. O'Meara, chairman of the State Board of Insanity, pleaded for a proper system of educating physicians for work among the insane.

John D. Merriam, trustee of the Westboro State Hospital, urged cooperation and a friendly spirit on the part of the institutions among themselves and towards the officers of the State, the Legislature and the executive.

Dr. John A. Houston, superintendent of the Northampton State Hospital, said: "It is a serious difficulty to persuade a well qualified physician to enter our service. The elevator men and shipping clerks in the State House are receiving larger salaries than many of our assistant physicians."

TANGO DANCE FINE MEDICINE, SAYS WINSTON

The tango is one of the finest medicines in the world, according to James F. Winston, an instructor in physical education at the municipal gymnasium on North Bennet street, and himself an expert tangoist. Commenting on Representative Lewis Sullivan's bill to bar the tango, Winston said:

"The tango is a physiological tonic and the magic of it has restored youth to gray-haired men, and stiffness to over-stout women. Whatever we may finally decide as to its moral aspect, health experts must vote on it.

"The movements of the up-to-date dances bring into play long unused muscles. Most of us haven't used these muscles since we skipped the rope, hopped and played leap frog as children.

"Without proper exercise of these muscles no one can walk correctly, stand correctly or feel well as one should. The dance exerts a salutary pull upon the lungs, stomach and liver, stirring the sluggish blood into active circulation, and reviving the tissues.

"Curvature of the spine, and stoop shoulders are impossible to the aggressive dancers of the new steps."

HOW TO GET RID OF EXCESS FAT

Without Drugs or "Starvation" Methods

Easiest thing in the world to have a beautiful figure free from excess fat. Just use Rheumabath. This preparation dissolved in the hot bath water, has an almost magical effect in reducing the superfluous fat and other matter to be cast out through the 2,000,000 tiny "sewers" in the skin.

Some of America's most famous actresses carry a supply of Rheumabath with them wherever they go, to keep the weight normal, the skin soft as velvet, the complexion beautiful.

"I'm Taking a Delightful RHEUMABATH"

Rheumabath is a white, crystaline substance that contains the medicinal ingredients of famous Mineral Springs.

It is not only a remarkable fat reducer, but a great thing for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Fatigue, Uric acid troubles. It gives relief from aches and pains in one bath, stiff joints and sore muscles disappear after a few baths.

Does it by causing the skin to throw off the uric acid and poisonous waste causing Rheumatic ailments.

You can get a full-size package of Rheumabath for $1.00, or send us $1.00 and an entire month's treatment will be forwarded, prepaid, for only $1.00, carriage charges prepaid. Order direct from the Rheumabath Company, Dept. 40, Minneapolis, Minn., or go to your druggist. Rheumabath is now sold by the Riker-Jaynes and other leading drug stores. (3)

Red Tag Sale

Will Save Money On Your Needs For Washington's Birthday

That's one of the big objects of this Red Tag Sale—to save you money. It saves you money by losing money for us.

In other words, our desire to make an absolute clearance of odds and ends of winter merchandise influences us to mark goods at prices that lose money for us—but on the other hand make a big gain for us in the fact that in this way we have nothing but new goods in stock when the spring season gets here. And then, too—you get Legal Stamps—and they add to your savings in a very helpful manner.

Look for the Red Tags—for they tell you the reduced price at which the article is to sell. The white tag, which bears the former selling price, is left on the goods—a Red Tag (which is also put on) tells the present selling price. Each bargain is thus set forth clearly—and the facts are always exactly as stated.

$2.50 Soft Or $2.50 Stiff Hats $1.35

Men's and Young Men's $12.50 Suits or Overcoats $5

A saving of $7.50 on a suit or overcoat ought to be a welcome one—especially during as cold a spell as we are now having.

But we're on the tag end of the season—these garments will be no good to us a month from now—and that explains why we're taking our medicine as regards loss now—when it will do you and us most good.

LONGFELLOWS IN HIDING AFTER THREAT NOTES

Henry W. Longfellow, his wife and their two children have asserted their home at No. 2 Commonwealth terrace, Allston, following the threats of death and kidnaping sent them in three separate letters and today are practically in hiding.

A card on the door announces they expect to return next Monday. The house has been left in care of Brutista Chiavero, a foreman for Mr. Longfellow.

The detectives have been withdrawn from the neighborhood and the police admit they have come to a dead end on the case concerned.

Phone Girls Dine New Supervisor

Miss Alice M. Brown of No. 195 George street, Medford, who has been promoted from operator of the South Boston exchange to supervisor of the Winchester exchange, was given a farewell dinner by the girls of the South Boston exchange. The hostess included Miss Annie P. Burns, supervisor; Miss Lillian Orchard, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Anna McGrath, Miss Irene Flemming, Miss Mary Dacey, Miss Mary McCarthy and Miss Helen Willis.

Two Mothers Seek Their Missing Sons

Two grief-stricken mothers today appealed to the AMERICAN for aid in finding their missing sons. Mrs. E. C. Nicholson of Grafton believes James Edward Gardwin, her boy whom she has not seen for some time, is in Boston. Mrs. Florence McEachern of South Dresser, Me., writes that Guy McEachern disappeared two weeks ago. She thinks he came to South Boston. He is five feet, ten inches tall and weighs 160 pounds.

AMERICANS AID THE STARVING IN BULGARIA

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The newly-formed American relief committee of Sofia, formed to help the Bulgarian refugees, has already given complete evidence of activity. Today it cabled to Arthur Symonds, secretary of the Macedonian Relief Fund: "Send us 1,000 blankets. Guthrie & Company, Cavalle, will provide free transportation on steamer Republic. Telegraphing the money."

Symonds told the AMERICAN correspondent: "I know these people, with the limited resources at their disposal, are splendidly going their work for the benefit of the hungry and homeless. We want to help them in every way in our power."

Filene Opposes One Cent Postage

"Newspapers and magazines serve to educate the people, and if an extra postage cost is placed upon them it would drive many out of business," asserted E. A. Filene at a meeting of the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which is holding a hearing on one cent postage. Many business men opposed any change in the postal rates.

MOTHER LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children cry; will not take time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you will have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled.

Schlitz in Brown Bottles

made pure—kept pure

Peter Schoenhofen Brewing Co. tacitly admits by the warning on their caution slip reproduced above—that light affects the quality of beer—that the light bottle is insufficient protection.

It is not enough to make pure beer—it must be protected from sunlight.

Schlitz in Brown Bottles is pure and wholesome from the brewery to your glass.

Where Pirates Preyed

The last word of the above heading might also be spelled "prayed," for the roystering rovers who pillaged, plundered, looted and murdered at Panama in the early days were not averse to offering up thanks to a higher being when success attended their raids.

All of us love the stories of pirate adventures. The most interesting fiction does not exaggerate the actual exploits of the pirates who for many years sacked and ransacked the towns, homes and churches of dwellers on the American Isthmus.

Every line of early Panama history thrills with adventure and romance, intrigue, hatred, love, jealousy — each played an active part in this exciting drama.

Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose

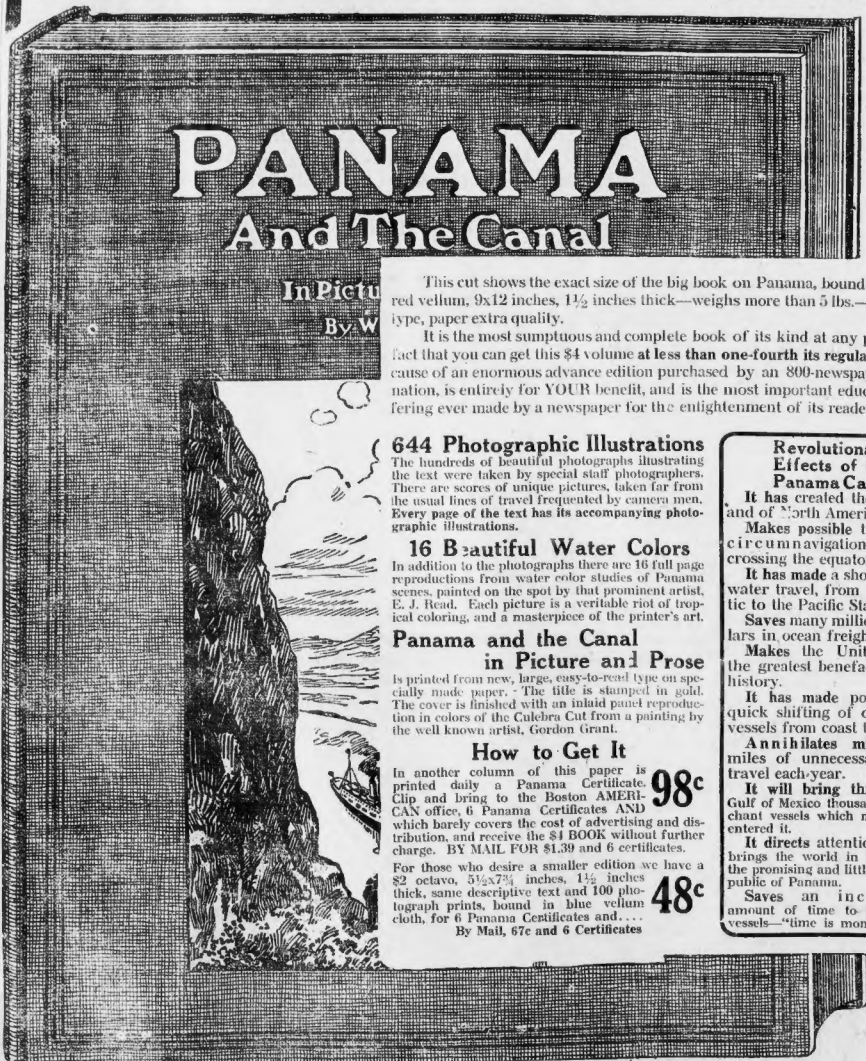
A Fascinating Illustrated Story

is furnished on Panama and the Canal by the well known author of international subjects, books of history and travel, Mr. Willis J. Abbot. He has collected the complete history of that queer, interesting country, Panama. He tells all about the building of the great canal, costing America more than $400,000,000. He gives a wealth of historical data never before presented to the public. The result is a charming heart-interest story, told in a chatty around-the-fireside style that grips you from the opening chapter and holds attention to the end of the story.

A $4 Book for 6 Panama Certificates and the Expense Amount of 98c

The book is worth its full regular price of $4, and will sell for that amount after the present limited edition has been distributed.

PRESENTED BY THE BOSTON AMERICAN



This cut shows the exact size of the big book on Panama, bound in tropical red vellum, 9x12 inches, 1½ inches thick—weighs more than 5 lbs.—large clear type, paper extra quality.

It is the most sumptuous and complete book of its kind at any price. The fact that you can get this $4 volume at less than one-fourth its regular price, because of an enormous advance edition purchased by an 800-newspaper combination, is entirely for YOUR benefit, and is the most important educational offering ever made by a newspaper for the enlightenment of its readers.

644 Photographic Illustrations

16 Beautiful Water Colors

In addition to the photographs there are 16 full page reproductions from water color studies of Panama scenes, painted on the spot by that prominent artist, E. J. Read. Each picture is a veritable riot of tropical coloring, and a masterpiece of the printer's art.

Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose

is printed from new, large, easy-to-read type on specially made paper. The title is stamped in gold. The cover is finished with an inlaid panel reproduction in colors of the Culebra Cut from a painting by the well known artist, Gordon Grant.

How to Get It

In another column of this paper is printed daily a Panama Certificate. Clip and bring to the Boston AMERICAN office, 6 Panama Certificates AND 98c which barely covers the cost of advertising and distribution, and receive the $4 BOOK without further charge. BY MAIL FOR $1.39 and 6 certificates.

For those who desire a smaller edition we have a $2 octavo, 5½x7¾ inches, 1½ inches thick, same descriptive text and 100 photograph prints, bound in blue vellum cloth, for 6 Panama Certificates and.... 48c

By Mail, 67c and 6 Certificates

Revolutionary Effects of the Panama Canal

It has created the new island of North America.

Makes possible the earth's circumnavigation, without crossing the equator.

It has made a short cut, for water travel, from the Atlantic to the Pacific States.

Saves many millions of dollars in ocean freight charges.

Makes the United States the greatest benefactor in all history.

It has made possible the quick shifting of our armed vessels from coast to coast.

Annihilates millions of miles of unnecessary water travel each year.

It will bring through the Gulf of Mexico thousands of merchant vessels which never before entered it.

It directs attention to, and brings the world in touch with, the promising and little known republic of Panama.

Saves an incalculable amount of time to ocean-going vessels—"time is money."

Johnny Evers Tells—

WHY HE HAS SO MANY TROUBLES WITH UMPIRES

Johnny Evers—the Braves' new $60,000 second baseman and the best known man in baseball today—has consented to do a little talking, himself—to readers of the Boston AMERICAN. He wants to become a pal of the Boston "fans." He knows THEM, and he likes them. In these short stories he will tell something about himself so that Boston "fans" will know HIM. In this story he explains why he has had troubles with umpires—soon and then. It's all in the game."

By JOHN J. EVERS

You have asked me to write something on my troubles with umpires. Well, I have had them as a result of my desire to win ball games, but I am glad to say my "runs in" with the baseball informed officials were less frequent last season than in any of the twelve years I have been in the major leagues.

That shows I am improving.

During the coming baseball season I will try my best to avoid conflicts with the umpires, but I cannot guarantee that I will be successful. Plays come up and in the heat of battle it is hard to refrain from calling the umpire's attention to the fact that he has made a mistake.

"THEY TRY TO GET ME"

I think the umpires sometimes give me very much the worst of it, yet on the other hand there have been times when I expected to draw a three-days' suspension that the umpire made no report to the president of the league. So you see it worked both ways.

Perhaps I have a bad reputation with some of the umpires. At any rate, I have been made the victim while sitting on the bench for some remark hurled at the umpire by one of the "fans" sitting back of the bench. One or two of the indicator men are always looking for trouble when I am in a game. They try their best to get me.

I realize that when one of the regular players on a team is put out of the game by an umpire that his team is weakened. I shall try to avoid weakening my team in the coming season.

SHOULD HEAR PLAYERS' SIDE.

Hitherto it has been the rule in the National League that a player shall not get a hearing if he has trouble with an umpire, unless, of course it is a very serious case, involving more than a three-days' suspension. The umpire's report to the president of the league is the only report sent in.

I wish President Tener would modify that rule and allow a player to send him a report stating his side in case of trouble with an umpire. I believe every player would be thoroughly honest in his report. President Tener could sift the matter thoroughly and then if the player was at fault, suspend him. This, at least would give the player a show which he hasn't got under the present rules.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I HAVE been reeding a lot about this Mexican bandit Zapata, sed Pa, & a idee has been growing in my brain.

Well, sed Ma, give the idee plenty of time to grow. Goodness knows a idee wud have plenty of room to grow thare, & plenty of lonely days & nites, Ma sed.

I do not need to let the idee grow any larger, sed Pa, it is developed now. All I need now is sum funds & a few brainy men, & I am going down into Mexico & capture this Mexican bandit single handed.

Ha, Ha, sed Ma. Ha, Ha, Ha.

Do you laff wen yure husband is on the brink of the graive, for all you know? sed Pa. Do you laff wen you know that I am going almost alone into the wilds of the wildest Mexico to match my brains & currage aggenst the worst bandit in the Southwest?

Ha, Ha, Ha, sed Ma aggenn. Oh, husband deer, you are too comickal.

You do not seem to reelize that I am in dedly ernest, sed Pa. Why, he sed, I have my plans so far advanced that I am now going down town to see if I can get sum rich man interested in the skeem, & then I shall call for a hundred of the braivest men in the city to go with me. I don't know jest what time I will be hoam.

Then I know moar than you do, sed Ma. I know that you will be hoam all the eevning. Thare will be no trip taken tonite, my dear hero. Home is whare the heart is, & yure heart will beet around here all this long, deeliteful eevning.

But I am in dedly ernest about this plan of mine, sed Pa.

& I am in dedly ernest about yure steying around the apartment tonite, sed Ma. Let these Americans thrash out thare own trubbels. What if you shud go down to Mexico & git shot by this terribul man. What would beecum of little Bobbie & me?

I do not intend to let him kill me, sed Pa. The long yeers I spent on the desert in my erly manhood taught me all the cunning of the plains.

Oh, shaw, sed Ma, doant tell me anything about the long yeers of yure erly manhood that you spent on the desert. A man like you, sed Ma, wud nevver spend much time in such a dry place as a desert. I think that eeven in yure erly manhood you wud have died if you had to go all day without sumthing trickling down yure deer neck. You are no desert child, Ma sed, & doant think that you are going down town tonite. I know you. You jest want a excuse to spend the nite with the boys, playing poker or bilyards.

Do you hear that, Booby, sed Pa. It is the history of the wurld since the beeginning of all time. Wen a grate patriot rises up to do sumthing, he is always hampered by a woman. The gratest stumbling block to all grate men, sed Pa, has been a woman. Mark Antony wud have had all Rome if it had not been for that butiful queen of Egypt. & now my butiful queen rises up & says that I must not go ahed with my grand skeem to help Mexico.

Do you think I am a butiful queen like Cleepatry? Ma asked him.

You are moar butiful, sed Pa, & jest as stubborn.

You deer boy, sed Ma, if you want to go down town awhile you may go.

Pa winked at me wen he was putting on his overcoat and hat.

No. 2. There Are More Ways Than One of Breaking the Ice

HE was skimming along on his skates late one afternoon when a bend in the river revealed a group of girls on the narrow strip of ice he must pass. Without a moment's hesitation he dashed like an arrow toward the danger point. The ice might not break, but if he passed those girls some of them were bound to speak to him. However, the ice DID break, and after clawing wildly at crumbling pieces, Bob realized that his strength was gone. He gave one loud cry for help, and everything went black.

HE opened his eyes for the hundredth part of a second. Then he closed them again very tight. In that instant there had flashed in his sight more girls than he could count. And they were all hovering over him with bottles, and steaming cups. "He's fainted again," one soft voice moaned. Only one of them noticed he blushed every time a girl's hand touched him. But it wasn't until his mother arrived that he opened the corner of one eye. "I'm all right now," he said.

The Dear Fool

The Story of the Love of a Woman of 40 for a Boy of 22

Novelized by

A. A. Waterbury

From the Broadway play by H. V. Esmond now playing in New York.—Copyright, 1914, by International News Service.

"IS there any news?" A saccharine voice floated in through the casement. It was Mrs. Palgraive, made fine in her newest Paris clothes to come seeking tidings of the invalid. She smiled in through the casement window—and her knowing glance fairly chilled the balmy air.

"Not yet," said Ethel.

"I hear Betty is back."

"Yes."

"Where was she after all?"

"At Surbiton. At her aunt's."

"How terrible for her," said Mrs. Palgraive sweetly.

"Not at all—they're quite nice people."

"I dare say. I didn't mean that. . . . Do you know, I don't think I'll wait. . . I'll—I'll drive over again a little latter."

"I shouldn't worry—bad news travels fast enough," said Ethel with a little extra acidity.

"It will be good news," said the unruffled Mrs. Palgraive. "My love to poor, dear Betty."

And with a nod of farewell she left the casement.

"Life isn't a pleasure trip," remarked Ethel. Then she went off with some sewing she had packed up. Sir Egbert walked to and fro with hands clasped behind his back. The silence was heavy with waiting.

"Not a sound. Not a sound," moaned Betty.

"If only I could help you, my dear," said Sir Egbert, doomed to see the woman he loved suffer for her own deed and offer no active sympathy.

Betty put out a timid hand to him, just as Bill came in quietly through the hall door.

"He will get well, won't he?" asked the brother.

Sir Egbert was grateful for a chance to do anything, say anything, so long as he did not have to stand uselessly by and watch a woman suffer.

"Of course he will—you couldn't bowl a chap like that out first ball."

"It wouldn't seem fair—would it?" asked Bill.

"It wouldn't.

"It's a funny thing there wasn't any blood—I suppose the hurt is inside," went on Bill in the awed voice of the child facing his first knowledge of tragedy.

"I suppose so," said the man sadly.

"We always said that branch would snap one day—but somehow we always went on it. We couldn't help it somehow."

"Have you been on it?"

"Not that one perhaps—but others very like it."

"How long—how long!" moaned Betty from her vigil at the door.

Then she came to them, her hands pressing her temples. She stood near them for a little while before she spoke.

"He'll live—he will live, won't he? They think he will live," she iterated and reiterated ever and ever more sadly.

"They won't give him half a chance not to. Sir Edward is the greatest surgeon in Europe," said Eggy kindly, and so impersonally that he wondered at himself. "Buck up, old lady, it must be nearly over now and we shall all be out of the wood."

"Yes, I know—I know."

Betty turned from the sight of Eggy, and one of her boys sitting there well and strong and live and real, while inside her baby might be undergoing she knew not what agony of scientific torture. As her glance wavered across the room she met Ethel's look, cold, calculating, hostile. In a moment Ethel was intent on her sewing, but Betty had felt the summons and went over to her sister's side.

Ethel spoke under her breath: "Has Cecil sailed?"

"Yes, this morning."

"For how long?"

"For five years."

Dull green like the sea before a storm were Ethel's eyes as they lifted again to her sister's face. With a hopeless little gesture, Betty cowered back and then went again to her place by the door. Suddenly she lifted her head, alert—listening.

"It's over. I heard something. It was a little cry."

"I heard nothing," said Ethel.

"Can't you? I thought perhaps"—the mother moved a little nearer the door.

Not Pleased

Jones met his neighbor, Smith.

"You were shooting this morning?" asked Smith.

"Yes, I had to kill my dog," answered Jones.

"Was he mad?" asked Smith.

"Well," said Jones, "he didn't seem any too well pleased."

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face Will Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful that it is sold by any of the Riker-Jaynes Stores or Houghton & Dutton, under the guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

WHO IS IN THE WRONG?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am seventeen and have been keeping company with a young man of twenty-one. Recently we had a quarrel and quit speaking. He has suitable habits and I love him and I am sure he loves me. He speaks when we meet, but that is all.

CONSTANT READER.

IN every quarrel one is the more to blame. If you were the one, apologize, but don't get down on your knees as if you had committed the greatest of crimes.

If he refuses to accept, forget him. The pouting man is the greatest of all afflictions.

NO

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a young man two years my senior, but do not think he returns my love, as he made an appointment with me at my home and did not keep it. Would it be right for me to ask him to call again, as I like him very much? ANXIOUS.

HE did not treat you very cavalierly, and unless the overtures for another appointment come from him don't make any.

Honest to Goodness

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE.

MOTHER and daughter carried a rocking chair with one rocker gone to a room up stairs. On a second trip they carried a lounge with one leg off and the springs broken, and on the third they carried a collection of enlarged pictures of kin.

What were they going to do with them?

They were engaged in making a den for father.

The literary interest of the average woman's life may be divided into three periods: First, the novel and fashion paper age; second, the cook book and household hints period, and, third, the time when she is most interested in the doctor book and the Bible.

No woman and her daughter-in-law were ever able to agree on what is economy and what is extravagance.

A woman got on a train twenty minutes before it was due to pull out. "My," she gasped, "I almost missed it that time."

When it comes to a decision in a father's mind between buying a new suit for himself or a party dress for his daughter he knows what his wife thinks he should do without asking her.

When some people wish to express disdain they say of a man, "I don't see what there is in him," giving [illegible] the impression that man is as inscrutable in his makeup as a mince pie at a [illegible].

The older we grow the less number of photographs we are compelled to order to supply all our friends.

The men will go on till the end of time giving their sweethearts novels and books of love poems during the courtship and then wonder after marriage why in the name of common sense every woman doesn't own a cook book.

Household Hints

When cooking greens a small [illegible] butter added to the water will stop them from boiling over and also prevent [illegible] offensive smell from passing into the room.

To clean old jewelry, make a lather of warm soapsuds and add to it half a teaspoonful of sal volatile; brush the jewelry in this, afterward polishing with an old silk handkerchief or piece of [illegible] leather.

To remove fruit stains from the hands rub them with the juice of a tomato.

The Woman Thou Gavest Me

HALL CAINE'S GREATEST STORY

THE NARRATIVE OF MARY O'NEILL.

FOURTH PART

I FALL IN LOVE

[illegible]

"But my husband [illegible]," I said. "Neither [illegible] and therefore the [illegible] is broken already."

The Bishop was [illegible] with me for this, telling me that as a good child of the Church I must never say that [illegible] marriage was a contract [illegible] from all other contracts [illegible].

"When you married your [illegible], dear lady, you were bound [illegible] by your act alone, but by a [illegible] power from which neither [illegible] can ever free yourself. The power that united you was [illegible] and whom God has joined together [illegible] put asunder."

"IT WAS CRUEL"

I felt my head drooping. The Bishop was saying what I had always been taught, though in the torment of my trouble and the fierce fire of temptation I had forgotten it.

"The civil law might divorce you," continued the Bishop. "I don't know—I can say nothing about that. But it would have no right to do so because the law can have no right to undo what God Himself has done."

Oh, it was cruel! I felt as if the future of my life were darkening before me—as if the iron bars of a prison were closing upon me, and fetters were being fixed on every limb.

"But even if the civil law could and would divorce you," said the Bishop, "think of the injury you would be inflicting on the Church. Yours was what is called a mixed marriage, and the Church does not favor such marriages, but it consented in this case, and why? Because it hoped to bring back an erring family to a second generation to the fold of the faith. Yet what would you be doing? Without waiting for a second generation you would be defeating its purpose."

A cold chill seemed to creep to my heart at these words. Was it the lost opportunity the Bishop was thinking of, instead of the suffering woman with her bruised and bleeding soul?

I rose to go. The Bishop rose with me, and began to counsel forgiveness.

"Even if you have suffered injury, dear lady," he said—"I don't say you haven't—isn't it possible to forgive? Remember, forgiveness is a divine virtue, enjoined on us all, and especially on a woman towards the man she has married. Only think! How many women have to practice it—every day, all the world over!"

"Ah, well!" I said, and walked to the door.

The Bishop walked with me, [illegible] me, as a good daughter of the Church, to live at peace with my husband, whatever his faults, and when my children came (as please God they would) to "instil into them the true faith with a mother's art, a mother's tenderness," so that the object of my marriage might be fulfilled, and a Catholic become the heir to Castle Raa.

"So the Church can do nothing for me?" I said.

"Nothing but pray, dear lady," said the Bishop.

When I left him my heart was in fierce rebellion, and, since the Church could do nothing, I determined to see if the law could do anything, so I ordered my chauffeur to drive to the house of my father's advocate at Holmtown.

The trial in the [illegible] was over by this time, and a dead crow tumbled from one of the tall elms as we passed out of the grounds.

Holmtown is a little city on the face of our bleak west coast, denuded by a broad stretch of sea, and having the sound of the waves always rumbling over it. Mr. Curphy's house faced the shore and his office was an upper room plainly furnished with a writing desk, a deal table laden with law books and foolscap papers, a stiff arm-chair, covered with American leather, three or four colored engravings of judges in red and ermine, a photograph of the lawyer himself in a wig and gown, an illuminated certificate of his membership of a legal society, and a number of lacquered tin boxes, each inscribed with the name of a client—the largest box bearing the name of "Daniel O'Neill."

My father's advocate received me with his usual bland smile, gave me his clammy fat hand, put me to sit in the armchair, [illegible] and [illegible] but did not [illegible] worse [illegible] from the [illegible] and finally asked me what he could do.

I told my story [illegible], omitting my sentimental grievances and coming quickly, and with [illegible] delicacy, to the grossest facts of my husband's infidelity.

The lawyer listened with his head aside, his eyes looking out on the sea, and his white fingers [illegible] his long brown beard, and before I had finished I could see that he, too, like the Bishop, had determined to do nothing.

"You may be right," he began.

"I am right!" I answered.

"But even if you are, I am bound to tell you that adultery is not enough of itself as a ground for divorce."

"Not enough?"

"If you were a man it would be, but being a woman you must establish cruelty as well."

"Cruelty? Isn't it all cruelty?" I asked.

"In the human sense, yes; in the legal sense, no," answered the lawyer.

And then he proceeded to explain to me that in this country, unlike some others, before a woman could obtain a divorce from her husband she had to prove that he had not only been unfaithful to her, but that he had been violence to her, struck her in the face, perhaps, threatened her or endangered her life or health.

"Your husband hasn't done that, has he? No, [illegible] thought not. After all he's a gentleman. Therefore there is only one other ground on which you could establish a right to divorce, namely desertion, and your husband is not likely to run away. In fact, he couldn't. It isn't to his interest. We've seen to all that—here," and smiling again, the lawyer patted the top of the lacquered box that bore my father's name.

I was dumfounded. Even more degrading than the fetters whereby the Church bound me to my marriage were the terms on which the law would release me.

"But assuming that you could obtain a divorce," said the lawyer, "what good would it do you? You would have to relinquish your title."

"I care nothing about my title," I replied.

"And your position."

"I care nothing about that either."

"Come, come," said the lawyer, patting my arm as if I had been an angry child on the verge of tears. "Don't let a fit of pique or spleen break up a marriage that is so suitable from the points of property and position. And then think of your good father. Why did he spend all that money in setting a ruined house on its legs again? That he might carry on his name in a noble family, and through your children, and your children's children. . . ."

"Then the law can do nothing for me?" I said, feeling sick and sore.

"Sorry, very sorry, but under present conditions, as far as I can yet see, nothing," said the lawyer.

"Good-day, sir," I said, and before he could have known what I was doing I had leapt up, left the room, and was hurrying downstairs.

My heart was in still fiercer rebellion now. I would go home. I would appeal to my father. Hard as he had always been with me he was at least a man, not a cold abstraction like the Church and the law, without bowels of compassion or sense of human suffering.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scale and the tape measure will tell their own story and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Druggists sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks weretùrgid today and after opening steady became irregular and remained so. Morning transactions in shares in New York did not total much above 90,000.

By afternoon those issues which had advanced included New York Central ⅛, Missouri Pacific ½, Baltimore & Ohio ⅜, Steel ⅛, Amalgamated ⅛, General Electric 1⅝, Mexican Petroleum ⅞. Among the losses were General Motors 2, Canadian Pacific ⅞, Southern Pacific ⅛, Lehigh Valley ¾, New Haven ¾, Northern Pacific ¾, and Union Pacific ⅛.

In Boston New aHven was off ½ and Boston & Maine 1, while United Fruit had declined ⅜ and American Telephone ⅛. Boston Elevated was unchanged. Butte & superior was up ⅝ and Calumet & Arizona ½, while Granby had declined ⅜ and North Butte ⅛.

PRICES WERE NARROW.

The New York market had a steady tone when it opened, but the price movement was narrow on the average and railroads in particular moved within a very limited range. There was no selling pressure of consequence and no great demand. Consequently the volume of business was restricted to less than 50,000 shares in the first hour and there was no celerity to trading during the morning or over midday. A number of industrials made good gains during the forenoon, however, including General Electric, Allis Chalmers, Westinghouse, Texas Company and Mexican Petroleum. General Motors was weak, particularly the preferred issue. American Ice declined nearly two points before noon and in the second hour Rumely common declined 2⅛ and preferred 4. The weakening of American Ice came on the heels of the rumor that large inside interests have been accumulating the stock. Its recent gain has been made on dividend expectations. The weather has been entirely suitable for making natural ice. Streams that have not been frost-thralled within the memory of a generation are now frozen over.

MARKETS WERE IRREGULAR.

While having a fairly firm undertone at the beginning, markets were irregular in the main throughout the morning. An early price improvement was succeeded by a tendency downward. There was no initiative on the part of either bulls or bears. Both sides were in an uncertain mood and awaiting events that would have actuation force. Rate case rumors or statements had very little influence. The situation has become so confused that there is a disposition to wait for something impelling to actually happen. Many shrewd observers expect stock markets to remain quiet for several weeks.

The London market had been weak in general before the one in New York opened and this had an adverse influence upon American issues abroad. A few advanced, but more declined. There, as here, price changes were fractional. Canadian Pacific was the weakest of internationals in London by afternoon.

BUSINESS HELD UP.

In the last half of the forenoon in New York Amalgamated and Anaconda were two coppers in better demand for the metal. March requirements of domestic consumers were long since filled and April supplies are being frugally sought. There is a little inquiry for May copper, but judging from demands by American consumers they did not expect any great improvement in business at once. In fact business sentiment appears to be that trade must await the adjournment of Congress or until the national legislature has done its best or worst. Crop forecasts which will be made in the Spring should be stimulant for business, if they are favorable.

LOCAL TRADING LISTLESS.

In the Boston market trading continued rather listless, although during he morning orders fairly covered the list. American Sugar was weak here, as well as Massachusetts Gas, while both Boston & Maine and New Haven sold lower. That was true of United Fruit, American Woolen, American Telephone and Shoe common. Mines were mixed, but among those to show small gains by noon were Franklin, Greene-Cananea, Indiana, Ray Consolidated and Tamarack. Attendance at commission houses we light and there was very little interest manifested locally in stocks.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The London copper warrants market was quiet today and at noon spot was up 1s. 8d. and futures were unchanged.

Five thousand trainmen on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road have been granted by arbitrators wage increases approximating $100,000 a year.

Nathan Straus says that "The grip of Wall Street on the United States has been shaken off by the new currency law, and we are entering what will be the greatest era of prosperity the country has ever known."

"Look Ahead," Says Forbes to Banking Leaders of Nation

By B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

Some day I hope to write a column headed: "And after that, what?"

* * *

Aren't some of us giving to looking no farther than the tip of the nose. Aren't we so engrossed in the daily routine, so taken up with pressing tasks, with mechanical details, that we leave ourselves little time and less inclination to take a good long think ahead?

* * *

My experiences this week prompt these questions.

On Tuesday I opened a discussion on the fundamentally important subject: "Has the rise in the price of capital culminated and are we likely to witness a very gradual relaxing in fixed interest rates?"

* * *

Now, nobody should be more interested on the outlook for capital than our bankers. It lies at the very root of their business. It is with them a matter of bread and butter.

* * *

Yet would you believe that half the bankers the AMERICAN has interviewed confess they had not given the problem a moment's thought until they read our article!

Isn't that amazing?

How long would a manufacturer stay solvent if he gave never a thought to the probable course of raw material? Would John D. Rockefeller have achieved his early success if he had taken no pains to study the probable ups and downs of oil?

* * *

Not long ago I printed a rather severe arraignment of American bankers by one of the most prominent of them—an American who gained all his experience in this country, but who early learned the value of looking farther ahead than the other fellow. Our bankers are inclined to be pin-headed, he declared. I'm beginning to think he was more than half right.

* * *

For their sake I refrain from publishing the names of big metropolitan bank presidents who admit they have never tried to study out the broad, general, worldwide tendency capital is likely to develop during the near or distant future.

* * *

Happily some of our financiers and bankers and economists do a little thinking. They have tried to analyze the outlook. They may not have reached dogmatic conclusions, but at least they have left no stone unturned in searching for light. Among such, I found, are Otto H. Kahn, Richard Schuster and Max May, all experts in world finance; Henry R. Seager, the able economist, and a few domestic bankers and brokers.

* * *

Every one of the authorities named is in broad agreement with the view expressed in this column on Tuesday—that the advance in interest rates, in income yield from safe investments has, from all appearances, reached its zenith, and that the trend hereafter promises to be very moderately in the other direction.

* * *

That the cost of living will also cease to rise and show slight recession in the near future is also the opinion generally held by those interviewed.

NEW HAVEN TO PLEAD GUILTY, SAYS WALSH

Governor Walsh, back from his trip to Washington, where he conferred with Federal authorities on the New Haven — Boston — Maine dissolution plan, today declared that the New Haven Railroad, when the government's suit against it is brought to trial, will plead guilty.

He was discussing the suggestion that a public hearing be held before the final dissolution plan is adopted. He said:

"That is absurd. It is as if a public hearing were to be taken on the findings of a jury after a criminal trail, before the sentence is executed.

"The Federal Government has tried the New Haven Road for violating the laws of the land, and has found it guilty. Presently it will institute equity proceedings against the road, and the road will plead guilty.

Mr. Walsh issued a full statement on the situation later in the day and said:

"I am in full accord with the Department of Justice that no one directly or indirectly responsible for the present wreck of New England railroads should take any part in the reorganization and rehabilitation of the Boston & Maine.

"No reorganization can possibly be effected that does not involve a radically changed relation between the leased lines and the Boston & Maine.

"Without effort and sacrifice on the part of those financially interested, no law, no board of trustees, no enforcement of the Sherman Act can save this property. No power can change the figures that for months all in close touch with the real situation know represent liabilities and assets. All that can be hoped for is that a new independent public-spirited organization such as the board of trustees will represent, with the co-operation of creditors and security holders, may save a catastrophe in the near future.

"The question of immunity is not in any way raised, nor can it be disposed of by the proposed agreement for dissolution. The national government is concerned only in separating the control, management and ownership of these two roads. All powers that now exist to stockholders to prosecute civilly or criminally those responsible for financial mismanagement will remain after the decree of separation is allowed by the courts. The right which the stockholders have to recover for responsibility for their losses cannot be interfered with or abridged by the Department of Justice."

The American and Pathe Freres Collaborate in a Plan to Amuse, Entertain and Educate Boston.

A dramatic story, "Victims of Vanity," will be released by Pathe Freres on Saturday. It tells of a young wife and of how her vanity led to her shooting her husband in mistake for a thief. Of course, in the end everything comes out all right. The first part of the story is printed today and the second part will appear tomorrow.

Every day the AMERICAN presents a fictionized version of one of the new Pathe photo plays. Read them in the AMERICAN and then see them in the moving pictures.

CHARLES WENDELL, A Friend of Harris............Harris Ingraham
CAPTAIN FISHER......M. O. Penn

CHAPTER I.

Banker Walrath had been rushed with important business all day. At 5 o'clock, when he was preparing to leave the office for his home, he received a telegram containing information which made it necessary for him to catch the 5:30 train for the East.

"I haven't a minute to spare, Harry," he said to Henry Harris, his secretary and confidential man. "Before you leave the office be sure and lock this box in the vault. It contains my wife's pearl necklace, which I brought from the jewelers' when I came from lunch. It's worth a trifle over twenty thousand dollars, you understand?"

Taking from his desk a morocco-covered jewel case the banker delivered it into his secretary's hands, and was off to catch his train.

Harris, a careful and systematic man, would have locked up the jewels immediately, but at that moment one of the banker's associates entered with a pressing matter, and the moment this had been attended to his wife called him up on the phone.

They were a strongly attached couple with their honeymoon still casting its roseate glow about them. So Harris let his wife ramble on with details about the dinner and dance which claimed them that evening.

"Don't be late, dear," she said. "You've barely time even if you start home at once."

Harris looked at his watch. He was startled to see that he was already too late to get into the vault, which was closed, and whose time lock would keep it closed until opening time in the morning.

Although much disturbed in mind, he had no choice but to take the pearls home with him.

His wife welcomed him with her usual shower of kisses. She had spent the last half hour gazing upon and kissing his picture, which confronted her own in a gold locket which always hung at her throat.

"Now hurry and dress, dear," she said, as he placed the box of pearls on her writing table and took off his coat. "What's that?" she inquired, gaily; "diamonds for your honey?"

Harris explained about the pearls.

"Oh, I've so longed to see Mrs. Walrath's famous pearls! Just one peep," she pleaded.

Harris indulged her. She was in ecstasy over the splendor of the necklace.

Just then a boy came with a telegram. Harris tore it open and read:

"Catch New York 9 o'clock express. I need you tomorrow.

"WILBUR WALRATH."

"Oh! the mean old thing!" Marion nearly wept.

"Can't be helped," said her husband. "I'll phone Charlie to come and take you to the ball—the lucky dog! Keep your eye on that box every minute—I shall have to take it with me, of course."

While he was out of the room Marion "peeped" again. Then she took the pearls out of the box and, going to the mirror, tried their effect upon her own fair throat. She was enchanted. She started to replace them, reflected—and vanity won.

Marion hastily scribbled a note and put it in the box in place of the necklace, which she concealed in her bosom. She would wear the pearls to the ball!

"Charlie's a go," said Harris, entering dressed for travel, suitcase in hand. "He'll be here any minute with his car."

Opening his suitcase he threw in the morocco box, and locked and strapped it carefully.

"Good-bye, dearie." He kissed her and was off.

CHAPTER II.

At the ball Charlie Wendell was having "the time of his life." Wearing those magnificent pearls, Marion Harris, so he declared, "eclipsed everything else in skirts." As they were not mingling with Mrs. Walrath's social set, no one recognized the necklace. There was no occasion for Marion to explain.

Only once did her conscience prick her at all painfully. While she was alone in the dressing room admiring her pearl-decked throat in the glass, she thought she saw back of her own reflection the mirrored face of an evil-visaged tramp looking in through the window back of her. She turned quickly, but no face was there.

Nevertheless Marion was disturbed in her mind. The ball held no further delights for her. She longed to be safe at home, with pearls safely hidden.

She feigned a headache at midnight, and Charlie Wendell good-naturedly ordered out his car. As Marion entered it she was recognized by an escaped convict hiding in the shadow of a pillar of the porte-cochere—the same whose face Marion had vaguely seen in the mirror.

Arrived before her door, Marion bade Charlie a cheerful good-night, with thanks, and ran swiftly up the steps. She had unlocked the door and half opened it before she saw that she had left her gloves in the car.

A lean, lithe figure which had detached itself from the rear of the vehicle when it stopped had concealed itself in some shrubbery. It was the escaped convict.

"Oh, Charlie!" called Marion, as she ran down the steps; "my gloves!"

She ran out to the car, got her gloves, and stopped for a few words with Charlie.

The thief, noting everything, stole silently out of the shrubbery and swiftly up the steps and through the open door. Hiding in the dusk of the vestibule, he saw his victim enter and mount one flight of stairs. He followed closely enough to see Marion enter the door of an upper room and close it behind her.

The thief mounted quickly to that same door.

CHAPTER III.

Breathless and apprehensive, Marion bolted her door and turned the key in the lock.

The pearls lay safely against her throat. What was the matter with her? She tried to laugh off her strange fears.

But her eyes were still on her locked and bolted door. Suddenly she saw the knob turn. Her heart seemed to stop beating.

She heard the grating of some instrument at the lock outside. Within arm's reach was the bureau drawer in which she knew that her husband kept a loaded revolver.

Without taking her eyes from the door she put her hand in the drawer and took out the weapon. Nearly fainting with terror, she cried out:

"Touch that doorknob agin and I'll shoot you!"

The knob ceased to turn.

At this moment Henry Harris, suitcase in hand, was letting himself in at the front door. In her section of the sleeper he had opened the jewel box to make certain about the jewels, and found in their place this note:

"The pearls are safe. I could not resist wearing them.

"MARION."

Fortunately the train was near its only stop on the trip to New York. Harris did not hesitate. He left the car before its wheels had ceased to turn, found an automobile for hire at the station and motored for home at reckless speed.

Hearing the front door open and footsteps coming up the stairs, the thief hid himself in a handy clothes closet.

Harris a few seconds later was turning the knob of his wife's bedroom door.

Instantly a revolver shot rang out. Harris fell unconscious at one side of the door.

The thief, peering out of the closet saw Harris's silent form on the floor and grinned knowingly. He stepped softly to the door and waited.

On the other side of the door Marion listened intently. Hearing no sound, she turned the key, unbolted the door, opened it an inch and looked out.

Instantly the door flew wide open, and she was struggling in the grasp of the thief, whose hand was groping at her throat.

Marion fought desperately to save the pearls. The struggle carried her out into the hall.

When the thief had torn the pearls from her neck and dashed down the stairs her curiosity about the effect of her shot was satisfied.

At her feet she saw the lifeless form of her husband.

TESTIMONIALS FROM BIG MEN

Public Officials Join in Sounding Praises of Latest Book on Panama.

No more convincing evidence of the authenticity and accuracy of the AMERICAN'S Panama book could possibly be offered than the many enthusiastic letters received by Willis J. Abbot, the author, from public officials at Washington, D. C.

Senators, congressmen, members of the President's cabinet, and the Vice-President of the United States have personally written to Mr. Abbot commending his enterprise.

Senator Myers of Montana writes: "'Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose' is a marvel of beauty. The illustrations are superb and highly interesting, and give a conception of Panama that cannot be obtained from reading and which is little short of that derived from a visit to Panama. The literary work is interesting, and is exceptionally valuable from an educational standpoint. The Canal Zone is a wonderful part of our possessions, and both children and adults should know more about it. Your excellent work puts this within the power of all."

Senator Martine of New Jersey, who is chairman of the committee on coast defense and an active champion of fortifying the canal, writes: "The illustrations and color plates with which your book is so profusely illustrated are as clear as actual photographic prints, and serve to enhance a story of the Isthmus that can never be duplicated for style and clearness of expression."

The AMERICAN is now presenting this book to its readers at the bare expense of distribution, as explained in the Panama certificates printed daily elsewhere in these columns.

AT THE HENRY F. MILLER Piano Warerooms

395 Boylston St.

We pride ourselves on the truthfulness of all our representations regarding QUALITY and PRICES. We have new and second-hand HENRY F. MILLER pianos; and new and second-hand pianos of other makes, in great variety, ranging in price from $50 upwards. We believe our prices, quality considered, are the lowest in Boston and our methods also to sincerely SERVE the BUYER. The values we offer in our regular course of business FAR EXCEED those advertised under the many deceptive forms of "special bargain sales," etc. At our warerooms, the inexperienced can buy as advantageously as the expert; and we guarantee EQUITY and satisfaction in every transaction. 39 AND 42 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, FEBRUARY 20, 1914.

The Real Backers of the Fight Against Home Rule in Ireland Are the Greedy Interests

To those who are interested in the development of the great human families, a most important, history-making struggle is now in progress in the British Parliament.

The hour has struck for the resurrection of the Irish nationality. But there are those in England and Ireland who will not look or listen. A considerable body of Irishmen in part of the province of Ulster, led by selfish interests in the city of Belfast, are threatening to oppose the self-government of their country by a civil war. These men have appealed to the people of Great Britain with their arguments and have appealed to passion and prejudice, fair and foul. All the arts and chicane of peace have been exhausted without avail against the force of Ireland's righteous cause. Now their leaders and the British Tory sympathizers in England threaten an appeal to arms if their country is allowed to govern itself.

It is a great spectacle. The advancement of the Irish cause to the threshold of Home Rule is proof among the nations that "truth crushed to earth will rise again." The process of resurrecting a nation is so momentous that all intelligent eyes are turned upon it.

The truth concerning the seditious opposition of the Orange and Tory leaders to Home Rule in Ireland ought to be told, because they have succeeded in misrepresenting the real cause of their fierce and treasonable agitation and misleading thousands of their honest but simple followers. They have sought with great success, particularly in England, to make the public believe that the movement for Home Rule is a great Catholic conspiracy to tyrannize over the Protestant elements in Ireland. There is no more malicious slander of a great cause for which great men have sacrificed life, liberty and property. The struggle for the restoration of the Irish Parliament is not a Catholic movement. The Irish Parliament was struck down by an English Tory government with the most distinguished Protestants of Ireland resisting at the risk of their lives. Robert Emmet and ten of the eleven great Irish martyrs, one hundred years ago, who gave up their lives on the scaffold, were Protestants. Practically all the prominent leaders in the struggle for Home Rule from the days of Parnell back to the insurrection of 1798, with the exception of Daniel O'Connell, were Protestants, not Catholics. Charles Stewart Parnell was a Protestant. Isaac Butt, who founded the Home Rule movement, was a great Irish lawyer, and a Protestant. Gladstone, who fathered it in England, was a devout Protestant. Prime Minister Asquith and David Lloyd George, the greatest Chancellor of the Exchequer England ever had, are both Protestants.

Gladstone was Scotch. David Lloyd George is Welsh, and Asquith is English. The three parts of the British Kingdom are represented in these three distinguished men, all Protestants, profoundly believing in the justice of Ireland's cause.

The seditious Ulster leaders know these facts. They know that there is no danger of any religious tyranny in Ireland. They know that the terms of the Home Rule bill make it impossible to carry out a policy of religious tyranny. They know that the history of the Irish Catholics, who compose a majority of the population, is wholly against any such fear. They know that one of the most famous historians said that the Irish Catholics were a remarkably tolerant people. John Wesley gladly testified to this; every fair-minded man of our own day testifies to it. The Irish Catholic suffered much injustice for his faith in the days that are passed. But he seeks no reprisal. One of the most Catholic cities in Ireland elected a few weeks ago a Protestant Home Ruler as its high sheriff.

But there IS a reason for the treasonable attitude of this Sir Edward Carson and his lieutenants in Belfast. The real reason lies in the same kind of sinister, sordid, commercial interest, located in Belfast, that has opposed our progressive reforms in the United States. The same interests in Belfast are opposing Home Rule as will oppose the Initiative and Referendum in the Massachusetts Legislature; as have always opposed the laws reducing the hours of labor and other reforms which tend to ameliorate conditions in this country.

Belfast is the city of the linen trade. Belfast linens are famous in every commercial market of the world. Belfast seems to be a prosperous city on the surface, yet it has been brought to light by able journalists, representing not only American but British and Continental newspapers who have gone to Ireland as commissioners for their papers, that there exists in Belfast one of the worst systems of industrial sweating known to the industrial world.

The hours of labor imposed on women and children working for those mill owners of Belfast and the miserable pittance paid for their labor are without a parallel in the manufacturing industries of any country on the globe. AN IRISH PARLIAMENT WOULD ABOLISH THIS INIQUITY.

The wealthy brewers and distillers of Ireland, who for generations have known little if any restriction in carrying on their business operation, dread, and with good reason, the enactment of a local option law for Ireland, BY AN IRISH PARLIAMENT.

There are in little Ireland thirty-one independent railroad corporations, each operating according to its own sweet will, mismanaged and inefficient, confused and incoordinate. These railroad interests fear the nationalization of the Irish railroads BY AN IRISH PARLIAMENT.

These are some of the great special interests which are fighting Home Rule with so much treasonable fervor. There are innumerable little special interests which fill up the ranks of the greedy horde who prefer ill-gotten gains to liberty and self-respect.

It is the old story and the old struggle of highly-organized private greed against the great national weal. We are fighting the same fight in this country, and they are fighting it in every developing nation of the earth. The progressives of the world ought to recognize their own cause in whatever land they see it, and their cause in Ireland is Home Rule.

HOW BILL GOT ALONG---No. 2

BILL TURNS FOR A LAST WAVE OF THE HAND

When Bill told his mother that he was determined to go to Boston and get a job, that good lady put her arms around him and, patting him on the head, told him she had known there had been something on his mind for a long time and tried to persuade him against going. Pointing out to him the advantages in a SMALL town like the one he was in, explaining to him that both she and his father were getting old and by Bill's going to the agriculture school for a couple of years he could learn the new farming methods, then come back, specialize on one thing and he was bound to make money, for he was close to a very good market for anything he might raise. Also explaining to Bill that he was not fitted to do anything in Boston that he could not do where he was, and that there were a hundred applicants for every job in Boston that required unskilled workmen. But Bill could not see it that way, and was more determined than ever to go and see what the big city held in store for him. So Bill marched out of the house, over to tell Emily that he was going away and to bid her good-bye.

Emily lived on the next farm, and she and Bill had grown up together, and to all parties and dances it was taken for granted that Bill was Emily's escort, and also, in the natural course of events some day, when they were a little older, Bill and Emily were to be married. When Bill told her he was going to Boston he was so excited he did not see the brief, pained look that came into her face, after the leave-taking, as he walked down the road, turning for a last wave of the hand, the eyes that were brim full of tears.

The minister and the leading grocer had each given Bill a letter of recommendation "to whom it may concern"—and the last things Bill felt for, to be sure they were there, as he got ready for bed on the train that night, were the letters and a pocketbook with $30 in it besides his ticket.—H. C.

Common Sense Vs. Hysterics

Dead Love Can't Be Restored—The Woman Who Lets Her Husband Go if His Love Is Dead Deserves Praise

By DOROTHY DIX

A MAN in New Jersey grew tired of his wife and fell in love with another woman whom he wanted to marry. Instead of lying to his wife, and deceiving her, and indulging in a clandestine romance with the other woman, the man went frankly to his wife and told her all about it.

It was an unfortunate and tragical state of affairs, but the wife had the good sense, the good taste, and the good judgment to meet it in a noble and dignified manner.

She simply eliminated herself.

She permitted her husband to go to Reno and get a divorce on technical grounds without any scandal or mud throwing, or any dirty family linen being washed in public to shame and humiliate her children whenever their father's name was mentioned, and to be a lasting disgrace to them.

I think that this woman deserves to have a monument built in her honor for having set a fine example for other women in a similar plight to follow, for in the great crisis in her life she displayed not only courage, but sanity.

Out of the wreck of her marriage she, at least, saved her self-respect as a woman.

Her husband's love was gone, and she let him go with it. She was too fine, and too proud to keep the body after the soul of love had fled. She refused to hold by the chain of the law the husband who had wearied of her, who begrudged her claim upon him, who found her society a bore, and who loathed the very thought of her as wife.

She knew that he felt this way toward her, and that everything that made their marriage holy and right had vanished, and so with her own hand she opened the door of the home that had become a hated prison house to him, and let him go his way in peace.

There were the three of them all miserable—the woman her husband loved, and who loved him; her husband loving another woman, and tied to her; and she still loving the man who loved her no longer.

It was in her power to make two of the three happy, and she did it, and, perhaps, in so doing did the best thing she could to secure her own happiness, since happiness is so often found in unselfishness.

Certainly she could have done nothing to secure her own peace of mind in keeping the other two apart, and binding to her a man who would hate her more and more for standing in the path of his desire.

The only dignified and rational way to deal with a recreant husband is as this woman has done, and as a Kansas woman did, who went to her husband's affinity and said to her, "For $13.25 I'll give you a quit claim to John. It's about $12.25 more than he's worth, and I feel that I will be cheating you in taking it, still if you fancy him!——"

Of course, a woman who hangs on to a man after he is deadly weary of her and wants to be rid of her always claims that she does so because she believes she can win back his love.

No woman in the world is foolish enough to really believe this. She knows that of all dead things nothing is so absolutely dead as dead love. For it there is no resurrection day.

Once the charm and illusion that a woman has had for a man is gone, it can never be conjured up again, any more than you can turn the shattered rose back into a bud again.

It is, of course, very, very sad when a husband ceases to love his wife, but when it happens she cannot alter the catastrophe by hanging on to him. She only makes a bad matter worse by so doing, and she can save her face, as the Chinese say, if not her heart, by voluntarily releasing him.

It is most encouraging to read of cases like these of the New Jersey and Kansas wives, because it indicates that women are at last beginning to show common sense instead of hysteria in sentimental matters and to discover that life has a few other things besides love in it.

The enlightened attitude toward love which men have always held is being slowly but surely accepted by women. This is that, while love is the ornament of existence, it is by no means the whole shooting-match.

Up to our grandmother's time it was the the proper thing for a young maiden who had been disappointed in love to pine away and die of a broken heart, or if she happened to have too strong a constitution for even morbid sentiment to kill her, to go through the world with the sad, sweet smile of a blighted thing.

But you never hear of anybody dying of a broken heart in these days, and instead of being blighted, a girl who is jilted gathers up the warmest of her love letters and takes them into the branch of promise court.

In our mother's time it was esteemed absolutely necessary to a woman's happiness for her to be loved, and in consequence the old maids who had been passed over by Cupid were pitied as bankrupts in life. Now, while we still recognize that love is the crown of existence, we know that a woman may be exceedingly happy and jolly and comfortable without it, and so nobody is wasting any tears on spinsters.

Up to the present moment there has been a tradition that no matter how lazy, and trifling, and drunken, and disagreeable a husband was, if he deserted his wife she should bemoan her lot in sackcloth and ashes, instead of getting up and rejoicing that she was rid of a loafer that she had to support or a brute that beat her.

The truth is that many a wife, instead of being broken-hearted at losing a husband, would be perfectly willing to hand him over to any other woman that would take him. Hence, perhaps, the philosophy with which the wife of the recreant husband meets his sidestepping.

More Pay for the R. F. D. Carriers

By CHARLES G. EDWARDS

U. S. Representative from Georgia.

A Letter to the AMERICAN.

I HOPE to see the time when every home, no matter how humble, will be supplied with a daily, except Sunday, mail service. What I wish for the people I represent should be extended to the farmers of all sections of this country.

There is a great demand for the reduction of the postage rate. I am convinced that to give the people a one-cent rate will not impair the efficiency of the service, and it will result in a great saving to the people of the country.

What the American people want is efficient service. Particularly is this true of the postal system. In order to get the most efficient service it is going to be, in my opinion, necessary to increase the salaries of the rural free delivery carriers, as well as the salaries of the postmaster, and I have proposed that the compensation to the carriers be fixed at $1,500 a year.

The carriers, as a general rule, are good and efficient men of high type. The salaries now being received by them are not sufficient to meet the demands that confront them. They are unable to keep up themselves, their families, their horses and their vehicles. The city mail carriers, proportionately speaking, receive much better salaries, and people in the cities get better service.

Many of us have worked for a number of years trying to create a sentiment in favor of Federal aid to road building and road maintenance. Good roads will mean new rural routes. Rural routes mean good mail service to the people in the country. It brings the people of our country into closer touch with each other.

The value of this Rural Free Delivery Service to the country cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. The country needs and must have that efficiency in the postal service which will give our people every convenience. Our postal service should be second to none in the world. We should be first among the nations of the earth in the service that means so much to the happiness, peace and prosperity of our citizens.

Washington, D. C.

Questions Answered

W. H. H.—Your question is best answered in the words of the author of "The South Americans" who says: "The poor man who wishes to make a home, as he would in our Northwest and in the newer Canada, has no place today in Argentina. The tendency today (in Argentina) is rather toward labor of the community or colony, from which the individual may finally break away. The solitary settler, as we know him, would find life very lonely.

A. E. P.—You are considerably "off" in your estimate of the relative sizes of the Dominion of Canada and the Continent of Europe. In other words, if the State of Texas was added to the Dominion it would be 20,000 square miles large than all Europe. Canada is nearly thirty times larger than Great Britain and Ireland.
